

GUARDSMEN AID POLICE . . .

Many Fires Set In, Near Hough

Cleveland, Ohio (AP) — Fire-bombing vandals set numerous small fires Wednesday night as violence broke out in widely scattered spots in and around the sealed-off Negro section patrolled by National Guardsmen.

Rock throwing, window smashing and looting spread from one spot to another. Police radio reports of trouble increased as the night wore on.

A large crowd of Negroes smashed store windows shortly after dark in an area about two miles east of the section where rioting Monday and Tuesday nights left two dead and 24 injured.

Hotel Target
Guardsmen joined police in wide-ranging patrols.

A crude firebomb was hurled from a car and gushed into flames outside a hotel, but it failed to ignite the building. An armed guard was posted inside the hotel. The doors were locked.

Policemen reported spotting several groups at work making Molotov cocktails — firebombs — behind buildings.

"We've got two cans of gasoline and two cocktails," was the report from one squad car.

Cuss Words
A half dozen Negro men shouted obscenities at Guardsmen while about 100 Negroes watched at an intersection. Policemen cleared the corner without violence.

Crowds formed in one spot, then another.

But in the original riot area of Hough (pronounced "Huff"), all was quiet in the first hours of darkness under the tight restrictions imposed by Guardsmen. Only residents or motorists on official business could get in or out. "We are going to restore order," Mayor Ralph S. Locher said grimly after meeting with the commander of nearly 2,000 troops called up late Tuesday.

House OKs Battered Defense Money Bill

Washington (AP) — The House passed and sent to the Senate Wednesday a $58.616,445,000 defense appropriation bill, swollen almost $1 billion beyond the amount President Johnson requested.

The unrequested funds included $153.5 million for procurement programs for the Nike X antiballistic-missile system still being developed.

The 393-1 roll call vote followed two days of debate during which Appropriations Committee members predicted that another defense money bill for more than $7 billion would be needed in January.

For Fiscal '67
The money in the current measure, biggest since World War II, is for use during the fiscal year ending next June 30.

The lone vote against it was cast by Rep. George E. Brown Jr., D-Calif.

The major part of the $1 billion increase was for pay and maintenance of a larger defense establishment than was in existence when the budget was submitted.

The House followed its Appropriations Committee's recommendations in adding unsought money not only for the missile defense system but for two nuclear-powered frigates, operation of a fleet of 600 B-52 bombers, continued development of the F-12 interceptor plane, and maintenance of separate Army National Guard and Reserve units.

It went even further than the committee proposed by adding $5.4 million for advance procurement of items needed for a second nuclear frigate. The extra money, boosting the total for the second vessel to $20 million, was approved without a dissenting vote.

Turned down by decisive votes were committee-opposed amendments to eliminate funds for the missile defense system and to expand the airborne telecast system the Defense Department operates in Viet Nam.

Rep. Jeffery Cohelan, D-Calif., offered the amendment to eliminate the missile defense fund. He estimated that the eventual cost would exceed $30 billion and said there is no assurance that the system ever would be successful.

The House defeated the amendment by voice vote after Rep. Robert L. F. Sikes, D-Fla., said the United States could not wait "until there is a missile attack before building a missile defense system."

Sikes claimed that the Russians are building a missile defense system around their major cities and are several years ahead of the United States in the defense field.

County Assessment Disparities Will Be Magnified By Proposal

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

Lancaster County has disparities in its real estate assessments that will be magnified by the state tax commissioner's recommendations to the State Board of Equalization for equalizing the 1966 valuations between the 93 counties.

This was indicated in a check by The Star of the sales-assessment r.a.t.i.o. studies compiled by State Tax Commissioner George Dworak's office.

A sales-assessment study is a compilation of reported property sales with a comparison of the assessed valuation on the property.

Worst Disparity
Lancaster County's worst disparity, as revealed by the commissioner's studies is between vacant lots and improved property.

On the average, unimproved urban and suburban lots are being assessed at only 10% of market value from reported sales.

In contrast, urban residential property shows an assessment ratio of 28.2%.

Under One Per Cent
The study showed some lots sold for $1,600 in the Lincoln area while being assessed on the county's books at $10, or less than one per cent of market value.

Also noted was the considerable disparity between commercial property, which is assessed at 42.2% of reported sales values, and urban residential, which carried an average assessment ratio of 28.2%.

Sales-assessment ratios on other classes of property were 20% on suburban residential, 31.5% on multiple-residential urban, and 23.4% on agricultural property.

Public Records
Dworak declined to comment on Lancaster County's sales-assessment picture, but said, "All the data and information of our office are public records and will be presented to the State Board of Equalization."

Lancaster County has not had a county-wide scientific reappraisal since 1953, but must start a reappraisal by Jan. 1, 1968, under a mandatory 1963 law.

Under Nebraska statutes, the County Board of Equalization is charged with equalizing assessed valuations between individual properties within the county.

No Control
The state board is charged with equalizing valuations between counties and has no jurisdiction or control over inequities that may appear between properties within a county.

Dworak said the 44% increase on rural property that he recommended to the state board represents restoration of the 15% cutback ordered by the county board from the county's 1965 valuation level and a 25% increase to bring it up to the proposed 1966 valuation level for all counties.

The 42% increase on urban and suburban property (non-agricultural land and improvements) represents restoration of the 28% cutback ordered by the county board and a 11% increase to equalize at the proposed 1966 level.

More Exaggerated
If the state board adjusts the real property valuations by the two broad categories of rural or urban, as has been the practice in the past, the "internal inequities" within the county will become even more exaggerated.

However, the 1965 Legislature provided for seven categories of real property and the tax commissioner's and attorney general's offices are studying its provisions for possible application in the 1966 equalization hearings.

The problem was spotlighted last year when several industrial tracts outside of urban areas got caught in the assessment increases handed down by the state board on rural property.

Too Low
The tax commissioner said Lancaster County's overall valuation should be $1,049,635,306 as compared with $808,127,660 as reported by the county.

He noted the reported valuation was $101,807,992 less than set for the county last year by the state board.

Dworak said his recommendations to the state board for revisions in the valuations of 84 of the 93 counties "will equalize valuations across the state in accordance with law."

Assessed at 35%
Nebraska law requires all tangible property be assessed at 35% of actual value. (The Supreme Court has ruled actual value and market value are synonymous in recent decisions upholding the state board.)

The tax commissioner indicated the 1965 state assessment level averaged 28% of actual value, but the proposed 1966 level will average 35% as required by law if the state board adopt his recommendations.

The Supreme Court ruled two weeks ago in the Grainger case (Lancaster County), he noted, that personal property must be assessed at the same level as real property.

Equalize
He said his proposed increases and decreases in the reported 1966 valuations of the counties "will equalize real estate assessments with the assessment level on railroads, franchises, airlines, telephone companies, pipeline companies and other public utilities."

"We have more facts and data than ever before to present to the state board," he said.

These assessment tools include the sales-assessment ratio studies, county perimeter maps of adjoining land valuations, land productivity data, rainfall maps, scientific reappraisals from a number of counties and average value per acre of agricultural land classes.

State equalization hearings will begin Tuesday with Lancaster County scheduled to appear Aug. 5 to show cause why the tax commissioner's recommendations for statewide equalization should not be adopted by the state board.

Members are Gov. Frank Morrison, Treasurer Fred Sorensen, Auditor Ray Johnson, Secretary of State Frank Marshall and Dworak.

LBJ Proposes Prisoner Talks

. . . SPONSORED BY RED CROSS

Washington (AP) — President Johnson assailed Wednesday as revolting, repulsive and deplorable Hanoi's threats to try captured American fliers as war criminals. But he shied away from counterthreats and offered to talk instead.

"We are ready whenever the Hanoi government is ready," Johnson told a news conference.

"We are ready," he said, to sit down at a conference table under the sponsorship of the International Committee of the Red Cross, to discuss ways in which the Geneva Conventions of 1949 can be given fuller and more complete application in Viet Nam.

Declared Or Not
These conventions provided that prisoners of war—whether a declared or undeclared war—must be protected against acts of violence or intimidation and against insults and public curiosity.

Officials said later that this willingness has been conveyed to the North Vietnamese through roundabout diplomatic channels.

Johnson said, though, that there is no indication Hanoi wants to discuss prisoners, peace or anything else.

Meanwhile, he said, more manpower will be needed in Viet Nam. He did not say how much, but "we shall persist."

Enemy Suffering
About 15 to 20% of the enemy captured, he said, are 12 to 16 years old. The enemy is suffering malaria and other diseases, he said, and the air strikes against oil facilities in the north hit about 90% and destroyed about 70%.

In response to a question about recurring suggestions that the United States again halt bombings of North Viet Nam, Johnson said he didn't think Americans should be spending all their time talking about what this government might be willing to do without the slightest indication of what the enemy might be willing to do.

Johnson staged the news conference in the White House East Room.

And with a broad grin, the father of bride-to-be Luci Johnson told newsmen:

"If I could just have your permission to just step aside on any of the wedding arrangements, I would like very much to do so."

On the strike of 35,000 Machinists' against five major airlines, now in its 13th day, Johnson said, "The President has taken all the steps he could under the law."

He voiced a hope that negotiations would continue around the clock.

On riots, Johnson was asked whether explosions were creating new antagonisms that might jeopardize the civil rights movement.

He's Concerned
He replied that he is very much concerned at conditions in some of the large cities this summer—disorders have broken out in recent days in Chicago, Cleveland, Ohio, Jacksonville, Fla., and other spots. He said he has talked with mayors about the situation and with some governors Wednesday morning.

On other subjects:
Politics—He said again he will be out there campaigning this fall, and will "take advantage of every opportunity to go out to the country and explain our programs . . . and ask for . . . support." He expects to repeat elsewhere that Gov. Edmund G. Brown of California "is a very great governor" and he expects to take this Saturday off to go to Indiana, Kentucky, Illinois and Tennessee.

Tight money—Johnson said, "We are seriously concerned with the plight of the home builder. We are distressed at increased costs from high interest rates." The best thing that can be done, he said, is for Congress to act on legislation the treasury recommended, such as putting a ceiling on interest on smaller time deposits.

Red China-U.N.—He gave no direct answer to a question pegged to admitting Communist China to the United Nations alongside Nationalist China.

NU Graduate Student Interviews Ike

By JIM STEVENSON
Star Staff Writer

A University of Nebraska graduate student who, as a high-schooler, collected autographs of prominent political figures climaxed his hobby last June when he was able to arrange a personal interview with former President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

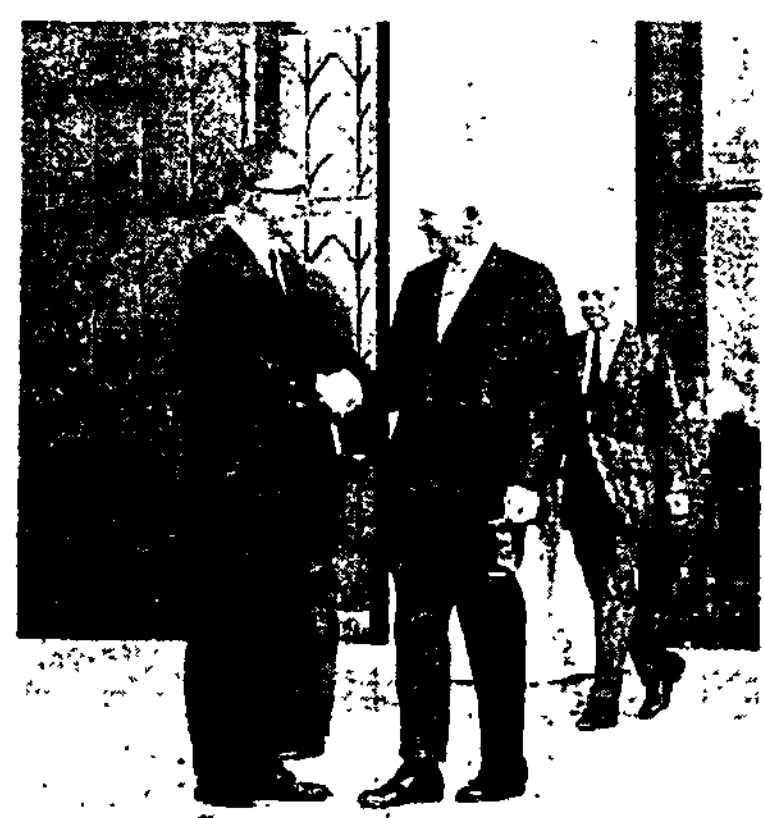

It all began when Dennis Warnemunde of 303 So. 27th, a graduate student in speech at the University, decided to use as his topic for his master's thesis "The Rose-Garden Speaking of Dwight D. Eisenhower."

The title refers to the informal addresses delivered by the former president to visiting groups in Washington such as the American Legion's Boys' Nation.

"It is actually a companion study to a thesis written in 1963 called 'The Rose-Garden Speaking of Harry S. Truman,'" Dennis explained. "It's an analysis of these talks—whether he conformed to contemporary standards and how he presented himself through the speeches."

"I got the idea back in November," he said. "And I made several trips down to the Eisenhower Library in Abilene, Kansas, to gather material for the thesis. I'd hoped all along to be able to work in some kind of personal interview, but it wasn't until my last trip in May that I got my chance."

"The associate director of the library told me that Eisenhower . . . shakes hands with Warnemunde in front of Eisenhower Library."

IKE . . . shakes hands with Warnemunde in front of Eisenhower Library.

however was expected to be in the area early in June for the commencement exercises at Kansas State. He suggested that I write to Ike and ask to have an interview arranged while he was here."

Dennis did just that. He received a reply from the former president a week later saying that Ike would be "very happy" to meet with much easier to communicate with him than I thought it would be," Dennis said. "He made the interview sort of an informal conversational one."

"Though his schedule permitted only a half hour for our interview," Dennis said, "we actually talked for about 35 minutes. Ike didn't stop the interview until he was through with what he wanted to say."

Very Considerate
"He was very considerate, too," Dennis added. "I had asked him if I could have a picture taken with him, and he agreed. But after our interview was over his secretary told him that he had another half an hour interview scheduled."

"When he realized that he would be unable to have the picture taken just then, he asked me if I could wait for 30 minutes," Dennis said. "He arranged to have the picture taken after his second interview."

"When I was in high school, my hobby was collecting autographs of prominent political figures," Dennis said. "I have about 120-150 of them."

"Actually, I suppose, this was partly the reason I chose to study the speeches of Eisenhower rather than some other past president. Since Eisenhower was still alive, there was the chance of a personal interview," he said.

"I'm really happy that I got the chance I did," Dennis said. "It was quite an experience—an unforgettable one."

Tom Rexilius Drowns At Lake Near Fremont

Fremont (UPI) — An honor student recently graduated from Lincoln Northeast High School drowned in the lakes area west of here Wednesday afternoon.

The victim was identified as Tom Rexilius, 17, 6644 Dudley, Lincoln.

Authorities said he and a friend, Bruce Anderson, 19, of Birchdale, Minn., were attempting to swim across a lake which was being developed. Rexilius was fully dressed.

Wayne Price of Lincoln, a developer of the lake, saw the boys were in trouble and picked up Anderson in his boat. He was unable to reach the second youth.

The body was found 45 minutes later by the Fremont rescue squad in 10 feet of water.

It was the first drowning in the lake area this year.

The lake in which the accident occurred is not yet part of the state lakes system here.

Rexilius graduated from Northeast in June. He was a

The fuel gauge on the tiny vehicle neared the empty mark. Officials felt, however, that with a little frugality by crewmen John Young and Collins enough remained to ensure a safe return to earth.

Fuel to maneuver the crafty

Flying in formation with the helpless target proved too costly to the fuel budget, and Collins was ordered in early. But, controllers didn't let the pilots think they were displeased, even though some planned things weren't accomplished. Collins spent less than half the time he wanted to on his celestial stroll, but did have time to become the first man ever to touch another satellite caught in space.

Wednesday's adventure—the satellite hunt and the celestial promenade—was the high spot of the bold journey.

For about half an hour, Collins was a breathing, talking human satellite of the earth—flicking around with a nifty space gun. But the order came:

"Get back in."

Mission Control flashed the order when Young dipped into the fuel supply while trying to stay close to the Agena rocket—blend of all its power.

After the hurried return from the stroll, the astronauts packed a bag of trash—including Collins' 50-foot lifeline—and dumped it into orbit after again opening the hatch.

All totaled, Gemini 10's hatch was opened three times—for Tuesday's space stroll, the walk and the trash dump—more than any other American spaceship.

Wilson Wants Freeze

AUSTERITY IS IN AGAIN

London (AP)—Prime Minister Harold Wilson Wednesday announced stringent economic measures that could hit Britons with the bleakest austerity since World War II and affect British support of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO).

"The time has come for every one of us to earn a full day's pay by putting in a full day's work," Wilson told the nation in a broadcast Wednesday night.

It followed his call in the House of Commons for a freeze on wages, prices and dividends. He slashed the nation's spending by nearly $2 billion in a bid to save the pound.

Brown To Stay

Wilson's chief economic expert, Deputy Prime Minister George Brown, who favors a policy of expansion, at first threatened to resign, posing the Labor government with a major crisis. But then Brown said he would stay on and fight to make a success of the government's policies.

Trouble for the Wilson program came quickly from another Laborite quarter.

Frank Cousins, leader of the Transport and General Workers Union, the nation's largest, said his group would not accept or cooperate with the wage freeze.

Cousins, a member of Parliament, quit as Wilson's minister of technology earlier this month rather than accept a voluntary wage and price restraint policy, which now has been sidetracked for the total freeze.

"I think it is quite the wrong way of dealing with it," Cousins said on a broadcast interview. Cousins represents the left wing of the Laborite trade unionists, Brown the right. Both come from the same union.

In an offshoot of the far-ranging program, Chancellor of the Exchequer James Callaghan flew immediately to Bonn to ask West Germany to pick up the foreign exchange tab for the 51,000-strong Rhine Army.

Wilson finally persuaded Brown to stay on after a long personal talk late Wednesday night.

Wilson's advisers felt the impact of the government's new austerity program would be dulled if not lost on the nation if it had been accompanied by Brown's resignation.

Call For Freeze

A central feature of the government's new emergency program was a call by Wilson for a wage-price-dividend standstill with the aim of stabilizing the economy.

Other measures will have the effect of cutting back public and private investment at home and abroad and introducing a vast range of curbs to limit the runaway spending power of the British people. All this cuts across the expansionism for which Brown has fought in policy-making.

The program hit the heavily burdened British taxpayer with a 10% increase in some taxes. It jolted the man in the street hard with new taxes and curbs, ranging from more expensive beer and gasoline to tougher installment buying terms.

Future Son-In-Law On KP

Savannah, Ga. (AP)—President Johnson's future son-in-law got up at dawn Wednesday to wash dishes for the Air National Guard.

But Patrick J. Nugent probably didn't chalk it up as experience for the time when he sets up housekeeping with Luci after they marry Aug. 6.

Luci was asked recently whether she expected Nugent, 23, to wash and dry dishes when they move into their brick duplex in Austin, Tex.

"Certainly not," 19-year-old Luci declared. But she added, "If he wanted to help, I don't think I'd refuse."

Nugent is serving two weeks training with the Air National Guard at Travis Field, near the Georgia coast. His day on KP began at 4 a.m. Thursday he returns to this normal administrative and clerical chores.

Nugent has a job with an educational consulting firm in Washington, but from what Luci has said, he will not hold any job immediately after their marriage.

He will work toward his masters degree in business administration. Luci says she will continue undergraduate studies but not resume her nursing duties.

Six Planes Downed By Reds So Far This Week

Saigon (AP)—Two more U.S. warplanes were shot down by the communists Wednesday, the U.S. command announced Thursday, raising to six the number of American aircraft downed over North Viet Nam this week.

Seven American fliers were lost with their planes Wednesday and listed as missing.

A spokesman said the two craft were shot down by ground fire, but did not indicate whether this was from antiaircraft artillery or missiles.

Record Barrage

U.S. jet pilots Tuesday encountered a record barrage of 29 missiles and a flight of challenging MIGs during strikes at six oil depots and other targets in North Viet Nam. Two of these U.S. planes were downed, one by a missile and the other by a MIG-17.

The new losses Wednesday brought to 297 the total downed since the U.S. air offensive against the north started Feb. 7 last year.

Just south of the border, B52 jets from Guam gave a hand to 7,000 U.S. Marines and 3,000 South Vietnamese troops trying to pin down a reported division of perhaps 8,000 to 10,000 North Vietnamese regulars. They bombed a suspected staging area before dawn. The count of enemy dead in the ground sweep, launched last Friday, rose to 376. Light contact was reported Wednesday afternoon.

Company Hit Hard

Several main force Viet Cong companies, wearing camouflaged uniforms and steel helmets, inflicted heavy casualties on a company of the 2nd Brigade, U.S. 25th Infantry Division, in a five-hour fight 21 miles northwest of Saigon. The Americans said they killed 51 Viet Cong.

U.S. spokesmen announced these developments in a struggle currently highlighted by the prisoners of war issue. Among related events rounding out the picture:

Pontiff's Plea

—In the face of statements by North Vietnamese ambassadors in Peking and Prague that captive American fliers will be tried on war crimes charges, Pope Paul VI appealed to Hanoi to safeguard them in accordance with international rules on prisoners. The pontiff said he acted from an impartial love for peace and "a desire to save humanity from still more serious consequences."

Moscow Radio said it agrees with North Viet Nam that captured U.S. airmen are not prisoners of war but war criminals.

—In Vientiane, Laos, Nguyen Chan, North Vietnamese charge d'affaires, told reporters that while American prisoners "are all war criminals" answerable to the government and people, North Viet Nam would "always follow a humane policy."

—Ho Chi Minh's promise of a "humanitarian" policy raised at least the possibility that the North Vietnamese would carry out the trials, but not execute any convicted fliers. Senate Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen declared in Washington "the American people will want to go whole hog" against North Viet Nam even if trials are held without executions.

—The Saigon government marked the 12th anniversary of the Geneva accords that divided Viet Nam as "a day of shame." It ceremoniously freed 16 young North Vietnamese prisoners of war at the border. Three chose to remain in the south. The rest crossed a Ben Hai River bridge into North Viet Nam.

—The Soviet government newspaper Izvestia, following up a Kremlin protest brushed off by Secretary of State Dean Rusk, issued a warning about what it called the danger to Soviet ships and crews from U.S. air raids at the port of Halphong.

—Also in Vientiane, Laos, a North Vietnamese diplomat said the Cambodian chief of

Speck Talks To Lawyer, Minister

Chicago (AP)—Richard Speck, 24, accused of murder in the mass butchering of eight student nurses, met with his defense attorney for the first time Wednesday and his first request was to see a clergyman.

Public Defender Gerald W. Getty, Speck's attorney, who has won his last 14 jury trials, said his client declined to see his brother, Howard Speck of Monmouth, Ill., and his brother-in-law, Eugene Thornton of Chicago.

Speck's relatives and the minister, the Rev. David Peterson, pastor of the Irving Park Lutheran Church of Chicago, were at the city jail hospital hoping to visit with the defendant.

The Rev. Mr. Peterson, 30, spent 20 minutes with Speck, then told newsmen:

"He (Speck) is concerned about his relationship with God. I think that primarily was the reason he saw me. It was a very personal conversation."

O. W. Wilson, Chicago police superintendent, has maintained that Speck's fingerprints were found in the nurses' townhouse dormitory and that his photograph was identified by Corazon Amurao, sole survivor of the massacre. He says this is all the evidence needed.

Long Record

Getty said he was with Speck "three or four minutes" and didn't go into the charges filed against the itinerant handyman and seaman, who has a long arrest record in Dallas, Tex.

"I advised him of his rights," Getty said. "I also informed him who I was and asked him if he wanted me to represent him. He said he did."

I informed him his brother and his brother-in-law were outside and asked him if he wanted to see them. He said he did not."

Getty was accompanied by Dr. William N. Norcross, the city jail physician.

Norcross said in court there is a "substantial possibility" that Speck suffered a mild coronary thrombosis (heart attack) Tuesday.

state, Prince Nordom Sihanouk, has invited President Ho Chi Minh to Cambodia during a September visit by French President Charles de Gaulle.

For the American Army it was another kind of an anniversary. It was July 20, 1965, that the Army here discarded its title as an advisory and support unit and officially became "the U.S. Army, Viet Nam."

Russell Says Trials Within Hanoi's Rights

From Press Reports

In London, philosopher Bertrand Russell, the ban-the-bomb leader, issued a statement Wednesday saying North Viet Nam's rulers "are fully within their rights to try the pilots."

"The United States government has not dared for years to declare war on its Vietnamese victims," he declared. "Its pilots are guilty of barbarous attacks, taking thousands of lives with weapons which defy the imagination in evil effect."

Lord Russell also said he has appealed to Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin to place Russian air force planes at the disposal of North Viet Nam to defend against American attacks.

"The Soviet air force would confine itself to defending the Vietnamese over Vietnamese territory, thus localizing the war while serving justice and defending a brave people," Russell said.

Hospital Ship To Sail

Saigon (AP)—The West German embassy said the hospital ship Helgoland will leave Hamburg Aug. 10 for Saigon and Vietnamese waters to care for war wounded.

Ho Tells De Gaulle People Determined

Paris (AP)—President Ho Chi Minh of North Viet Nam has written President Charles de Gaulle that his people are determined to fight "to the final victory."

Jean Sainteny, former minister sent on an information mission to North Viet Nam, handed the message to the French president Wednesday.

Enrollment At McCook's Job Center Halved

... 'Spontaneous Decision'

McCook — The enrollment at the McCook Job Corps center is being cut in half "temporarily," director Clem Griffin said Wednesday.

About 100 corpsmen at McCook center are being transferred to six other camps. Griffin said, leaving McCook with an enrollment of 100. A buildup won't begin in McCook until after Labor Day, Sept. 5, Griffin said, adding that the same boys who were transferred won't be returned.

Griffin said the move was an effort to strengthen instructional procedure at the center northwest of McCook.

He said the cutback was a "spontaneous" decision of officials at the McCook center and in Kansas City and Denver.

Forty corpsmen were shipped out Tuesday, 10 more left Wednesday and the rest will be transferred before the end of the week, Griffin said.

Griffin said the transfers are to Mountain Home, Idaho, Weber Basin, Utah, Poplar Bluff, Mo., Lyiciek Lake, Minn., Box Elder, S.D., and Cottonwood, Idaho.

Lipton Buys Morton House

Nebraska City (UPI)—Morton House Kitchens, one of Nebraska's big industries, has been taken over by Thomas J. Lipton, Inc., it was announced.

Morton House will continue to operate as in the past but will be a wholly owned subsidiary of Lipton. President Karl H. Nelson will continue to run the company, the announcement said.

According to a company statement, the stockholders authorized the transaction on July 19. Action to complete the sale was taken at a meeting of the company board of directors in Nebraska City.

Terms of the transaction were not announced.

Voc-Tech School Major Shot In Arm For Sidney—Bradford

Sidney — Sidney and its surrounding area are making strides in compensation for the loss of Sioux Army Depot, but closer liaison is needed between city and area business and civic leaders to complete the job.

This is the opinion of Donald F. Bradford of the Department of Defense who headed a group of federal officials in conferences held here to determine present and future utilization of Sioux, which is to be phased out by next June 30.

Bradford said the state's vocational-technical school will be a major shot in the arm for this section of the state and should, in time, more than make up for the loss in population and payroll occasioned by the closing of Sioux.

He said other state and federal projects, plus the utilization of depot properties for private industry should, if properly planned, give the region greater economic impact than was felt from the depot at the time the phase out notice came in April, 1964.

The Department of Defense and other federal agencies have co-operated fully in making the depot available for private and public use, months ahead of the official phase out date, Bradford pointed out.

"Actually we still own the depot," he said "but in our desire to co-operate with you, we have put ourselves in the role of tenants rather than owners in order to make way for depot utilization."

$13,000 Damage In Fremont Fire

Fremont — Fire caused an estimated $13,000 damage Wednesday to the interior of a two-story frame house used as offices for the Fremont Molasses Feed Co.

Firemen said the blaze apparently started around an air conditioner then spread through the interior of the building. Company records were destroyed.

An employee, 62-year-old Emerson Lucke, suffered burns about the head and face.

Legends Come Forth Frequently As Indian Cave Park Crews Dig

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau
Barada—You'd think each spade was assigned to dig up its own special legend here at Indian Cave State Park.

A 35-man cleanup crew is actually engaged in the sweaty restoration of century-old St. Deroin cemetery, not in exhuming stories. They come nonetheless, seemingly from every hill and every old-timer around.

"We can't vouch for the facts, but at least some of the tales make pretty good listening," said Paul Heller, junior superintendent of the planned 3,000-acre development. "One fellow insists he has personally seen a cavalryman's grave marked with a musket that a tree has grown completely around."

So far the work party hasn't stumbled across that lost landmark, but has noted several hollow trees which remind of one hair-raiser. Destined as a campfire favorite for future park visitors is the story of the "gunned-down revenoer."

"They say a bootlegger stuffed his body into a tree and the bones are still rotting away somewhere in the area," continued the State Game Commission official.

Into its second summer, the park cleanup employs 31 teenagers under the 1964 Economic Opportunity Act. Buses transport the boys daily from low-income homes at Falls City, Auburn, Tecumseh, Dunbar and Nebraska City.

Auburn supervisors Larry Dankenbring and Hanson Aldrich, along with Larry Hornbostel of Falls City, are as intense about the boys' future as that of the sprawling park. More than a dozen teenagers ended last summer's program with plans to continue their education.

Approximately half under state ownership now, Indian Cave is scheduled to be the state's largest park by the end of a 10-year acquisition and development. Even with no facilities whatsoever, its wilderness has drawn a few campers this summer.

"It's still no great number of visitors, yet on weekends we're getting several times the number who drove through last year," said Heller. "Since word got around about the cemetery work, we've been real pleased at all the local people who have stopped by."

They have to agree with the young workers that at least one legend is true. That's of the "whistling tombstone" of 1890.

"It's hollow and has steel name plates that are loose," explained Heller. "The wind whistles right through whenever the wind is strong from the south —and especially on a dark night."

Storz No Longer Uses Certain Foam Stabilizer In Formula

Omaha — The Storz Brewing Co. of Omaha, in a statement, said it had discontinued use of a certain foam stabilizer. The statement did not define the stabilizer.

Storz president Norman J. Thomas said:

"For a period of time Storz Brewing Company used in its formula a certain foam stabilizer. This product is fully approved by the Food and Drug Administration and still is and was commonly used by many breweries throughout the United States, including a number of which market their beer in Omaha and the Midwest. The product is commonly used throughout the world.

"However, we learned that there was some suspicion in regard to the stabilizer and the management of Storz immediately discontinued its use.

"This step was taken even though medical investigators said there was absolutely no medical evidence to give this product anything but a clean bill of health and their clinical studies have failed to reveal any connection between this condition and beer."

Thomas said none of the stabilizer remains on the market.

Alliance Reports 76-Bushel Wheat

Alliance — Some bumper wheat yields have been reported in Box Butte County.

The top yield so far was 76 bushels to the acre on a 26-acre field at the O'Brien Brothers farm west of Alliance. It was Warrior variety grain.

At the Dallas Dufek place 10 miles northeast of Hemingford, a 25-acre field produced a yield of 58 bushels to the acre and a 60-acre field had a yield of 52.

Jay Peters got 52 bushels to the acre at his place 18 miles east of Hemingford.

Listeners will have opportunity to submit questions to a board of moderators who will present them to the candidates. Each speaker then will have five minutes to answer each question and two minutes for rebuttal.

The Watchful Wait

By ELDON

(Note: William O. Dobler, The Star's editor, is on vacation. Today's column is by Eldon Barrett, of United Press International.)

CLEAR, Alaska—The soft, eerie green glow made the room appear like something out of science fiction while the string of lights on the consoles and cabinets twinkled like giant pinball machines. But the intense array of the men in the place dispelled any fancy of fiction or fortune. Their work and the work of the machines they manned were serious—deadly serious.

This was the nerve center of one of three radar stations strung across the upper reaches of the northern hemisphere to guard the United States and its allies against a sneak missile attack over the top of the world.

The other stations are at Thule, Greenland, and Fylingdales Moor in the north of England. Together their complex radar antennas interlace to form a protective shield known as the Ballistic Missile Early Warning System (BMEWS). Outside, the mid-night sun this time of the year holds clear in its twilight zone. But inside the command post, the radar scopes can "see" for 2,000 miles in an arc of 120 degrees from due north to the west. "Satellite due in one minute," a voice in the dimness says. It was the voice of a young, well-groomed man sitting before a small radarscope. Exactly a minute later the expected blip appeared and he noted it in his log book.

"Spurk," he said tightly. There was something more than mere scientific interest in his voice. This particular blip was Proton-3, which the Russians launched recently. It is a 12-ton monster. But if it had been a 16-inch-long needle 2,500 miles away, the radar still would have seen it. If it had been a ballistic missile, the system not only would have seen it, but would have known almost instantly when and where it would land.

And almost before you could say "Watch out!" the information would have been computed and sent automatically to the North American Air Defense Command at Colorado Springs, Colo., to the Pentagon in Washington, to the Strategic Air Command in Omaha, Nebraska, and to the Royal Air Force in England.

Although the system has been in operation since October, it was only recently that it achieved the sophistication that it now has. This was the result of the installation of a huge, super-sensitive electronic "eye" known as a tracker. This 110-ton rotating radar antenna is housed in a huge plastic ball that stands 10 stories high. The radome housing the 84-foot parabolic radar disc is comprised of more than 1,600 pieces of six-inch-thick dielectric sandwich honeycomb plastic so precise that when the last piece was fitted into the top, there was only one-sixteenth of an inch leeway.

The Valuation Increase

Breakfast newspaper readers lost most of their taste for food Wednesday when they read that State Tax Commissioner Dvorak suggested that the state board of equalization approve a thumping increase in Lancaster County valuations—42 per cent on urban property and 44 per cent on rural property.

Eighty-three other Nebraska counties got the same news in varying degrees. It was traumatic, something akin to receiving a blow between the shoulder blades while gulping down hot coffee.

But it isn't quite as bad as a first glance at the figures indicate. In the first place it is a proposal. It

BARRETT

This sphere protects the tracker from the Alaska winters where the temperature plunges to as low as a minus-75 degrees Fahrenheit. It can withstand winds up to 185 miles per hour. Seeing it from the inside is like looking into a gigantic jewel.

The tracker rotates on a hydrostatic bearing lubricated by a film of special oil so thin it takes a microscope to see it—4/1000ths of an inch, under pressure of 1,000 pounds per square inch.

But as marvelous as the machines are, they are useless without the men who run them and care for them. One of these is Bob Nichols of Detroit, a technician. "I guess you might say I'm a Latter Day 59er," Nichols said. "I had planned to come to Alaska eight years ago when that bunch of homesteaders came up from the Detroit area, but for one reason or another, I didn't make it until now."

His buddy is Cliff Henry, from Allen Park, Michigan. Back home he was a television repair man. "This is a little more complicated," he admitted. John Lewis, Dayton, Ohio, is the quiet type. He was interviewed just after he came off the "dog watch." John is a slightly built man but the breakfast he had before him included three fried eggs, a pile of bacon, a pile of hash browns, a slab of cantaloupe, a sweet roll, three pieces of buttered toast and black coffee.

"I've been here four years," he explained. "I like classical music and good books. And, as you can guess, I like to eat. Funny thing, though, I don't seem to get fat." The head pastry chef is Teddy Ruesch, who learned his trade in Switzerland's best hotels and came here two years ago from the Sheraton Palace in San Francisco. The living quarters, which include dormitories, recreation facilities and the huge cafeteria, "have all the conveniences of town," explained R. C. Olson, Monroe, Washington, who is systems and equipment control manager. "There are 760 persons, including 150 military personnel on the site," he explained. "They make an average of $15,000 a year, plus living quarters and meals. The employees include 30 women, most of them secretaries and key punch operators and all of them married to men on the base. One fellow is a state representative. After all, this is the 22nd largest town in Alaska and our voting precinct is as large as the state of Texas."

"Inside we have a four-lane bowling alley, a large gymnasium—one of the largest in the state, incidentally. Outside we have hunting, fishing, gold panning and scenery. Lots of scenery. Sometimes we even look south—at the largest peak in North America, Mt. McKinley. But, of course, our real interest is the skies to the north."

Cutler, A Man Who Gets Things Done

WASHINGTON — It isn't being advertised, but Lloyd Cutler, the astute auto industry lawyer, dropped in at the antitrust division the other day to argue Assistant Atty Gen. Donald Turner into dropping the civil case against General Motors for monopolizing the locomotive market.

Cutler is the man who has cajoled, pressured and persuaded some members of the House Commerce Committee over to the auto industry's side on safety; also represented the big drug companies when the issue of safe drugs was before Congress; also represented Interhandel, dummy for I. G. Farben, the big Nazi cartel, regarding the return of alien property.

He has become one of the most versatile big-business attorneys in Washington. And the fact that he used to belong to the same law firm as Antitrust Chief Donald Turner hasn't hurt him a bit.

Turner is the man who recently took a trip to St. Louis in the Anheuser-Busch private plane to see the All Star baseball game, shortly after dropping an antitrust suit against the big brewing company.

When John Doerfer, Ike's chairman of the Federal Communications Commission, was a guest on the Storer yacht while entrusted with regulating Storer broadcasting stations, Eisenhower demanded his resignation.

It will be interesting to see what happens in regard to Turner on two counts: first whether LBJ requests his resignation; second, whether Cutler persuades Turner to drop the civil case against General Motors.

GM has been accused, among other things, of telling railroads it would not ship its autos and other equipment over their lines unless they purchased GM locomotives.

GM was first indicted in a criminal case in the Kennedy administration, April 12, 1961. The criminal case was dismissed in Chicago Dec. 28, 1964. Now GM wants the civil case settled, too.

Lawmakers Have Yen To Build Massive Buildings

WASHINGTON—For some obscure reason, men in public life hanker for great piles of marble to perpetuate their name after they have gone to their reward.

Inasmuch as practically every circle and park in the nation's capital is already occupied by the statue of some Civil War general on horseback, modern-day leaders are forced to settle for massive buildings or additions to national shrines.

Many of them are unwilling to await the judgment of history, which can dispassionately decide whether they are worthy of a monument such as those to Washington, Jefferson and Lincoln.

Instead, while they are still in position to wield power, they look around for ways to leave an observable mark on their surroundings. Some of the most modest, unassuming leaders seem to be the worst offenders in this respect. To cite a few examples:

Over the furious protest of architects and the fine arts commission, President Truman added a "Truman balcony" to the south front of the White House, thus breaking the pristine lines of its graceful columns.

As it turned out, he could not have needed this means of leaving his stamp on the White House, because shortly thereafter the legs of his daughter's piano broke through the ceiling below, and an investigation disclosed that the building was standing mainly from habit. The interior had to be gutted and rebuilt, so the Truman administration will

JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

To Your Good Health

Today's remarks are inspired by a considerable variety of questions about temperature and fever. What is fever? An abnormal elevation of body temperature. When it is over 100 degrees, infection is usually the cause (although in infants, dehydration is a common cause).

Fever is one of the most frequent signs of the presence of disease, and one that can be measured by anyone who can read a clinical thermometer.

Keep in mind a few generalities about temperature. The familiar 98.6 degrees is average. Some people, entirely normal, may consistently be a degree or so below that, without anything being wrong. But since 98.6 is average, it therefore follows that for everyone whose temperature is normally below that, there will be some body whose normal temperature is that much above the average.

Rectal temperature is about a degree higher than oral; temperature taken in the armpit is about a degree lower. Temperature declines during sleep. It tends to rise about a degree in the evening. Strenuous exercise can raise it from 1 to 4 degrees.

A fairly high fever alarms us, yet it may not necessarily presage a condition more dangerous than that which causes a continued low grade fever—say 100 or a bit above. The high fevers are more frequently associated with acute illnesses. The low grade fevers may be associated with such things as tuberculosis, kidney infections, hidden abscesses, malaria, etc. Malignancy can be a factor, as well as the collagen diseases (lupus, rheumatoid arthritis).

The common cold as a rule brings no rise in temperature; flu and many other virus infections do. When a common cold brings some fever, it usually indicates that a complication has developed—sinusitis, bronchitis, secondary bacterial infection.

In infants, convulsions may be touched off by a fever, but this tendency lessens after the ages of 1 or 2 years.

Chills (and this is not limited to any age) may precede the onset of a high fever. It is due to spasm of small blood vessels near the body's surface. As the spasm relaxes, a flush and feeling of warmth follows.

Dear Dr. Molner: For several months I have suffered from a burning sensation of the tongue. I went to the hospital for tests but they showed nothing. Could it be allergy?—MRS. M. S.

When hospital tests haven't found the answer, I hesitate to hazard any guesses. Yes, allergy is one cause of burning tongue. So is deficiency of Vitamin B. Also lack of sufficient acid in the stomach. Brewer's yeast sometimes helps. Medication to increase acid in the stomach can help if that is the source of the trouble. These are merely shot-in-the-dark suggestions, of course.

Dear Dr. Molner: My husband has what the doctors call restless legs and suffers from it. Can anything be done?—MRS. W. D.

The exact cause of this is not known, but it annoys a good many people as they get along in years and occurs when the patient is at rest, such as lying in bed or sitting in a chair.

Symptoms can include tightness, burning, aching, a crawling sensation or restless discomfort, and it often goes by the name of "jitter legs," which in some cases is a good description.

Moving about usually brings relief, but if the annoyance can be prevented—as sometimes it can—that's better, of course.

Occasionally diabetic neuropathy is found in a case, and medical attention is in order. About half the patients are found to have some degree of depression, and drug therapy for this condition can help, although relief may not be immediate.

Still others have anemia and correction of this improves the situation.

Disturbances in circulation or nerve disorders are not always a cause but do occur, and use of a vasodilator drug may be beneficial. Supportive hose may be tried.

In an occasional case avoiding coffee affords relief.

As you can see, when differing conditions are at work, no single remedy can be expected to help all cases, and the divergent methods which help different cases are evidence that we do not know very much about this problem.

Still, one or another of the foregoing methods have helped a good many people.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is there any operation or treatment for sway-back? My husband (he is 55) has difficulty being fitted for clothes because of this.—MRS. H. T.

Sway-back, or an exaggerated forward-and-back curve of the spine, can be annoying but is not a dangerous health hazard in most cases.

At the age of 25, the bones are fixed in shape and there is no exercise, treatment or surgery that will correct the condition.

Dear Dr. Molner: I've been told that eating fried fish and drinking milk with it will cause ptoimaine poisoning. Is there any truth to this?—MRS. M. B.

There's no truth to it. Any foods that can be eaten alone can be eaten together.

Furthermore, ptoimaine poisoning doesn't mean anything specific. It is a general expression, which covers any kind of poisoning resulting from tainted food.

Dr. Molner is interested in all health matters and will be glad to answer your questions in his column, but because of the great number of letters received, he regrets that he cannot answer individual letters.

The Hermits

Lincoln, Neb.

John DeCamp, writer of teen-age performance of "Herman's Hermits," is a fiend! This is written as a protest against his article in the July 14 Star. We, the party of the first part, agree that the statement about the "Dave Clark Five" being noisy was completely uncalled for. If England produced a more clean-cut musical group, our parents would not rebel against our immature ways. The "Dave Clark Five" have a variety of musical instruments played by intelligent, well-bred gentlemen and they all look as though they belong to the same group.

As for the Hermits, we have nothing against them. It is simply Mr. DeCamp's unjust statement that bothers us. We, the party of the first part, expect a complete retraction of the statement.

Where To Start

Fremont, Neb.

Rep. Clair Callan was recently in Nebraska "beating the drum" for a Grasslands National Park with a host of recreational facilities.

I respectfully submit to Rep. Callan and the people that it is not the business of the federal government to supply parks and recreational facilities—especially when provided with borrowed money.

I would like to remind Rep. Callan that the President has called for a cut-back in spending to combat inflation.

I again respectfully suggest that the proper place to start cutting spending is with the federal government.

GILBERT NORTON

The Dreams

Lincoln, Neb.

It wasn't bad enough to threaten us with a 20-year addition of some $80 million to jazz up side streets to O Street in the near future. Now they are planning the construction of a state office building that will lay us low for another $3 million to $4 million more, by special building levy, to be broken down into parts.

This will not benefit the multitude or general public, just those who drag in the profit and those who have the modern cooled offices.

How come Nebraska wasn't there when sister states were picking up the government tabs that were offered by federal funds? The nearly $6 million that was Nebraska's allowance was lost because it could not be met. The health department suffered because of the loss, and also education. Anti-poverty, unemployment and job training all were bypassed while a group thinking only of themselves dreamed of a metropolis they will build to a ghost town.

People are hard enough pressed to live, rear their families and meet the everyday needs. When pressures get too heavy, they move away. Young people move on to better wages and greater opportunities for the education acquired. They see no future in a city bowed beneath endless debts or a flowery mall.

We should fight these dreamers who plan well but not wisely.

Confused

Fremont, Neb.

Governor Morrison contends that Senator Carl Curtis represents the radical right and not the main stream Republican thinking. On what does the governor base this opinion? The dictionary defines "radical" as a person who favors rapid and sweeping changes in laws and methods of government. This definition befits the Great Society and its liberal left following. Senator Carl Curtis is a constitutional conservative, using the Constitution of the United States as a guide in his voting.

Just what does the governor consider the main stream of the Democratic party thinking? I am a bit confused with the mouthings of Senator Bobby Kennedy, Senator Fulbright and Senator Morse; the policies of President Johnson, Secretary Rusk and Secretary McNamara and the conservative voting of such old-time Democrats as Senator Harry Byrd (retired), Senator Eastland and Senator Russell.

Future Benefit

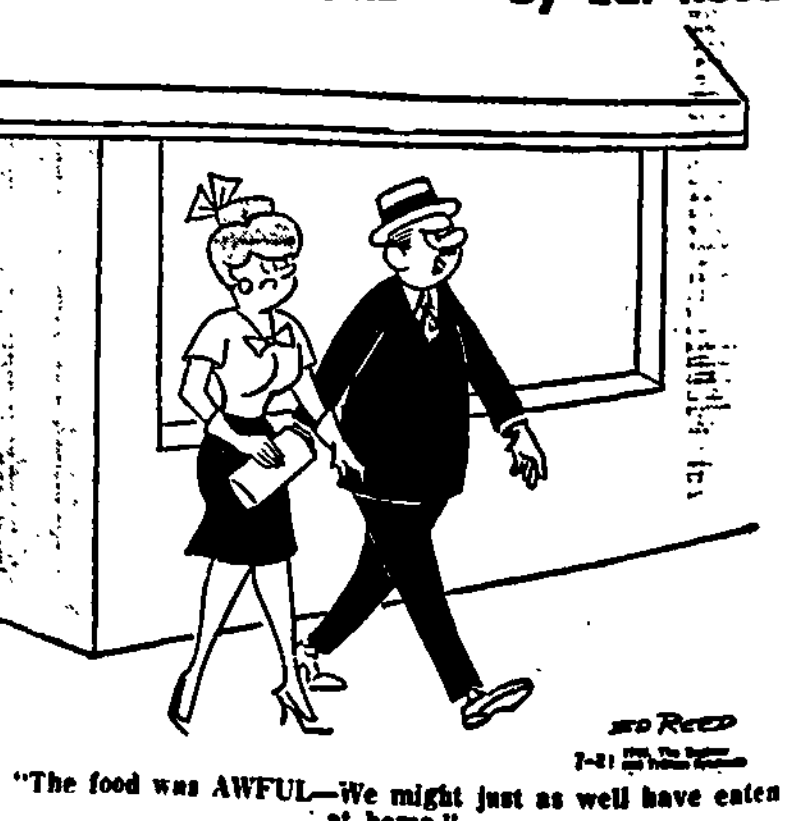

Hasings, Neb.

This is to congratulate The Star for the fine editorial in the July 19 issue, "The Wrong Conclusion," regarding the Nebraska public power and irrigation situation.

I think one important point that is not usually considered is the fact that when the bonds for the power and irrigation districts are finally retired, the benefit will then be passed on to the users of irrigation and electricity. Future generations will benefit greatly from these public projects.

LBJ Wants Continuous Airline Strike Bargaining

Washington (AP)—The airline talks reached the point of another apparent breakdown Wednesday night despite President Johnson's urging of around-the-clock negotiations to break the 13-day stalemate.

"I don't know if we'll ever come back," said an obviously angry union vice president, Joseph W. Ramsey.

Chief airline negotiator William J. Curtin said management would refuse to make an offer for the striking machinists union to present to its members without a contract agreement.

The development came after Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz had denounced the union vote plan as "pointless

... intolerable" and "a farce of collective bargaining."

Wirtz's strong statement and Johnson's pleas apparently served only to delay for a few hours the union's announced intention to take whatever was the latest company bargaining offer and present it to the striking employees for what is viewed as almost certain rejection in the absence of a formal agreement.

The move by the AFL-CIO International Association of Machinists, if carried out, would almost certainly extend for another two weeks the strike which has halted five major airlines.

The strike is costing the airlines and some 66,000 idled employees millions of dollars a day in revenue and wages in addition to snarling the nation's transportation system and injuring summer tourist business.

The latest company contract offer reportedly was for a 50-cent an hour wage increase spread over a 42-month contract, compared with union demands for 53 cents over 36 months.

Top airline mechanics now receive $3.52 an hour.

Fringe benefits, especially a union demand for a cost of living wage escalator clause, were other reported major roadblocks to a settlement.

Argentina Closes Humor Magazine

Buenos Aires (AP)—The military government closed down Wednesday the magazine Tia Vicenta, famous for its caricatures.

In its latest edition it showed two sea lions congratulating each other that Argentina finally had an acceptable president. This looked like an allusion to the mustache of the new president, Lt. Gen. Juan Carlos Onganía.

The magazine for years had regaled Argentines with its cartoons. It pictured ex-President Arturo Frondizi with an enormous nose, nearly twice the size of his body.

PLANK KILLS WOMAN IN SIOUX CITY

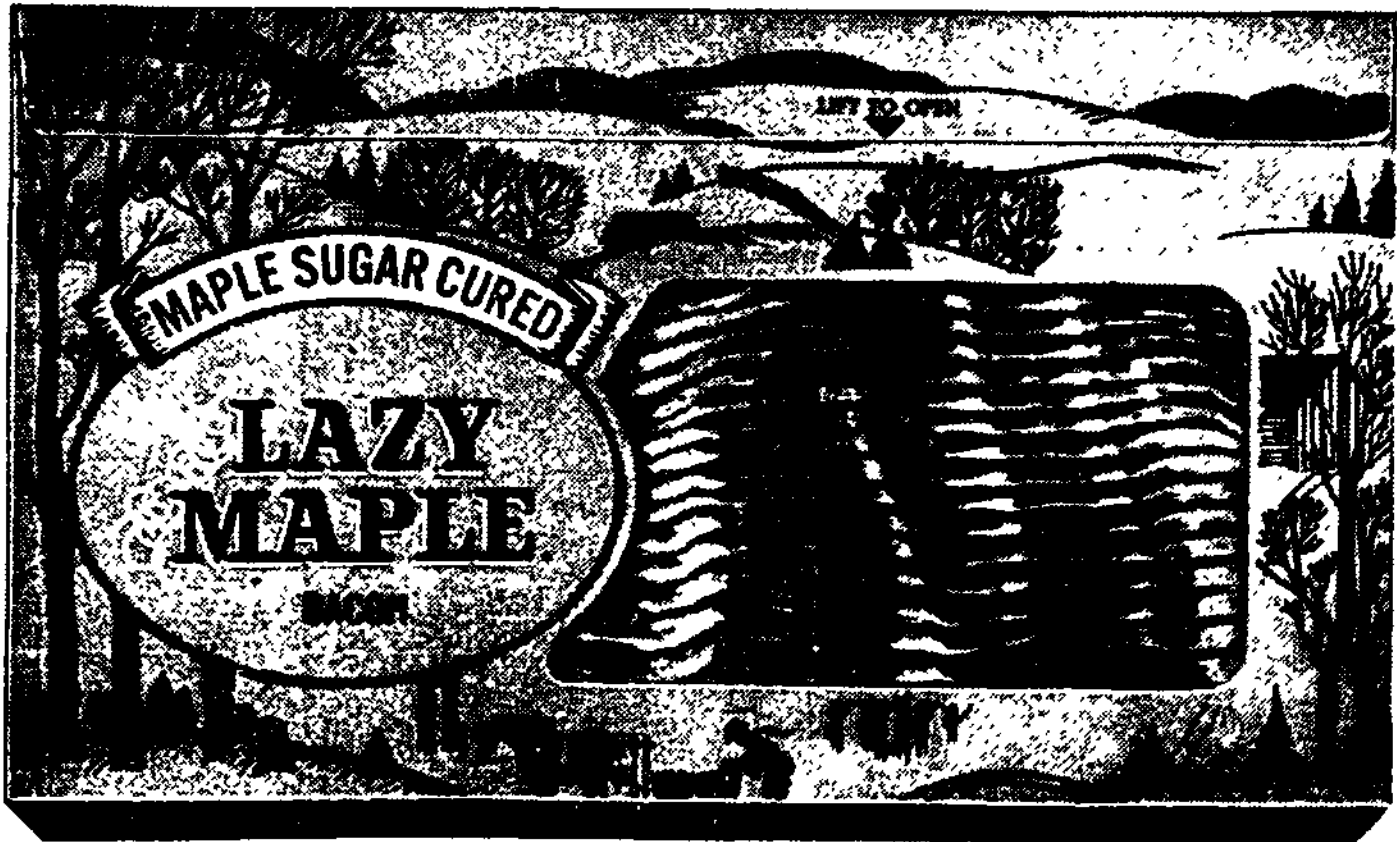

Mrs. Ronald Riediger, 31, of Sioux City, was killed when a 2-by-6-inch plank fell from a dump truck in the opposite lane and struck her head as she was driving. The plank used as a weight on the truck box, came loose and sailed through the windshield of Mrs. Riediger's car. She died of massive head lacerations.

Why did this Vermont farmer stop curing his own sweet-smelling, mouth-watering maple sugar bacon?

Only one sweet-smelling, mouth-watering Lazy Maple reason.

For 18 years he insisted that nothing was as good as his home-made maple sugar cured bacon. But, when Swift brought out Lazy Maple Bacon, he thought he'd try it. (Just once, mind you.) Well, sir, one breakfast was all it took. The sizzling-sweet aroma, the rich, hearty taste of Lazy Maple Bacon changed him for good. Don't be stubborn. Break your old breakfast habits, with Lazy Maple Bacon—the only reason this Vermont farmer stopped curing his own.

Salt Valley Seeks Four Land Parcels

... FOR CHANNEL WORK

By BOB SCHREPF
Star Staff Writer

Salt Valley Watershed District directors Wednesday voted to negotiate for four separate privately owned land parcels in order to obtain sufficient right-of-way for the pending second stage channel improvements on Salt Creek, from the State Fairgrounds to the northeast edge of the city.

Acquisition of the property is necessary before the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers can proceed with channel stabilization and drainage work.

The corps is ready to go once the necessary easements are obtained, a spokesman said the second stage project will not be as extensive or as costly as phase one, which improved the channel from 1st and Calvert to the fairgrounds.

The directors agreed to accept an independent appraisal of the properties, which totaled $24,427, as a basis for negotiations.

In other action, the board formally authorized the fiscal 1966-67 budget to be apportioned to the six counties within the district for funding.

The budget is "rated out" in proportion to the amount of assessed valuation in each county and the state-authorized 3/4 mill tax is levied by each county board.

Salt Valley attorney Robert Crosby reported that 95.79% of the assessed valuation in the district lies within Lancaster County.

Norman Gau, the corp's project engineer for Salt Valley projects, told directors that limited funds have been received to begin a study of continuing flood control problems in the Salt Creek watershed.

Ed Kenney of Omaha, recently appointed area manager of the Iowa-Nebraska division of the Mississippi Valley Association, was a guest of the directors at Wednesday's luncheon meeting.

The association is comprised of organizations interested in flood control, navigation and the economic development of the entire Mississippi Valley.

Other business:

—It was reported that work on the Branched Oak dam project is about seven percent completed and should be "well ahead of schedule" by the time work stops in the fall.

—A scheduled director's tour of the completed first stage Salt Creek channel improvement project has been postponed until later in the summer. Schroeder also said the directors will tour the Branched Oak area near Raymond.

HANDWRITING ON THE WALL PROTESTS WAR

Viet Nam protest took an unusual and sarcastic twist with this sign, scrawled on the wall of an Ashland business building with a spray paint can. The message reads, "Viet Nam A-Go-Go Drafted, 65 & 66." (Star Staff Photo.)

Exchange Students Outrun President, Family

Washington (AP) — President Johnson ran a footrace across the south lawn of the White House Wednesday, and lost—but he loved every minute of it.

After greeting more than 3,000 foreign high school students on the lawn, the President, Mrs. Johnson and their daughter Lynda, were mobbed by the youngsters seeking pictures, a handshake, or just a friendly hello.

At first, Johnson stood his ground, shaking as many hands as he could reach. Then as he began to move away, the students followed. The President moved a little faster, and so did the students, until finally, there was simply no getting away and Johnson quit running.

The 3,000 students from 59 countries are finishing up a year in the United States during which they lived with American families and attended American high schools, many receiving diplomas.

"Let every nation and every generation—and especially your young hearts and minds—volunteer with us in building a more just and humane world," the President told the gathering.

"When countries speak of sending volunteers into other lands, let them be sent to the real battlefields of poverty, ignorance, disease and suffering. Let them come bearing hope, not arms.

"Let them volunteer to enlarge the lives of their neighbors, not to take those lives. This is the kind of volunteer Americans understand. It is the only kind the world needs and wants."

As the students surrounded the President and his family, efforts by secret servicemen and special police to keep them away were less than successful.

Flowers, bushes, and a few toes suffered in the melee but the students and the President alike loved it.

PANEL DROPS SOME USED CAR SAFETY

Washington (UPI) — The House Commerce Committee Wednesday backtracked and softened in its auto safety bill provisions to require federal standards for used cars.

Moving toward the wind-up work on the measure, the committee adopted an amendment to require the secretary of commerce to issue standards for used cars sold in interstate commerce within two years after the legislation became law.

However, it did not set any deadline for the used car standards to take effect.

The measure already calls for standards for all new cars to be issued by next Jan. 31, with a revised set to follow a year later. Each would have to show up in cars within a year.

Originally, the committee voted to require that cars when resold—continue to meet standards applicable when they were first made—except in states with their own used car inspection programs.

The committee also voted to set up a national traffic safety agency in the Commerce Department.

Children Who Contribute To Support Of Aged Parents Should Get Tax Break

By ROBERT PETERSON

For years tax breaks have been given various categories of taxpayers. You can deduct contributions to churches and charities, and businessmen can deduct expenses for travel and entertainment.

But to date there's never been any special tax consideration given to children who support aged parents — unless they are their sole support.

Many grown children would like to give money regularly to parents who are in poor financial circumstances, except that there is no tax incentive.

Unless they are the sole support of an aged parent, they cannot get any tax relief for funds they may give for such support.

A break may be in the offing, for Sen. George A. Smathers, D-Fla., has been raising questions in the U.S. Senate's Committee on Aging as to whether there may be justification for easing the tax burdens of those who make the effort to assist needy parents.

"It is often difficult for children to honor fathers and mothers with monetary gifts," says Sen. Smathers, "for it imposes an additional load on their monthly budget and inhibits the ability of the working family to meet its federal tax obligations."

"Yet realizing what their parents sacrificed to rear and educate them, some children would like to assist their parents and would do so if given proper tax incentives. Certainly children who contribute funds to needy parents should receive more lenient treatment at tax time than those who refuse to contribute to their elders' support."

Let's hope Sen. Smathers and the Committee on Aging find ways to amend federal tax laws in such a way as to encourage children to contribute to the support of parents in financial need.

Here's a note from a retired salesman of 78 who says, "I started reading your column last spring when you discussed Dr. Paul Dudley White's views on exercise. I had been in failing health and while my doctor told me to do more walking, I saw no reason to start at my age."

"But your column was so convincing that I thought I would try walking a quarter of a mile daily for two weeks. Well, I felt pretty good at the end of that period, so I increased it to a mile."

"For the past several months I have been walking three miles a day, and can hardly believe it but I don't feel tired at all and have not been feeling better but have been sleeping like a baby."

"When I went to my doctor for a check-up last week he was astonished at the improvement in my physical condition. When I told him your column gave me the incentive to start exercising he was a little miffed and said, 'Some of you fellows have to read it in the newspapers before you'll take anyone's advice.'"

Jerry Atrick says, "An old-timer is one who can remember that one of the reasons this country was started in the first place was to escape taxation."

Hamelin, Germany (UPI)—The 20th century has worked some changes on the legend of the Pied Piper of Hamelin. North Viet Antiaircraft Hits Parallel Korea Reds'

By BEM PRICE
Washington (AP)—Communist antiaircraft guns in Viet Nam are knocking down U.S. warplanes at a rate almost identical with that of the Korean War.

Did Mao Swim? Other Thousands Take Yangtze Dip

Hong Kong (AP)—Did Mao swim? More than 5,000 persons swam the Yangtze River near Wuhan in central China Monday for the benefit of foreign visitors, Hong Kong newspapers reported Wednesday. But they made no mention of Mao Tse-tung.

Shigko Kuki, a Japanese delegate to the African-Asian Writers Conference said in Tokyo Tuesday she was told the aging chairman of the Chinese Communist Party also swam the river. Delegates to the writers conference were spectators at the mass swim.

The Chinese language newspapers Ta Kung Pao and Wen Po carried a report from Tokyo quoting Miss Yuki, a writer, as saying Mao looked healthy when she met him. But it deleted her reference to his taking a swim.

George Hamilton Hopes To Attend Luci's Wedding

Hollywood (AP)—Actor George Hamilton said Wednesday he has received an invitation to the White House wedding Aug. 6 of President Johnson's daughter Luci and Pat Nugent.

Hamilton, 36, frequent escort of the President's other daughter, Lynda Bird, said, "Of course it would be an honor to go."

Whether he can do so, he added, depends on whether he has completed his current movie assignment in "The Long Ride Home" or, if not, whether he can get time off from the filming.

Hamilton's statement, through a spokesman, was in reply to a question if he had been invited.

While the U.S. aircraft involved in the Viet Nam operations are vastly superior to those used in Korea, so are the enemy ground defenses.

Further, the air effort to impede the movement of communist troops and supplies to the fighting front in Viet Nam seems to be about as successful—or unsuccessful, depending on the viewpoint—as it was in the 1950-53 conflict.

During the first full year of air war over Viet Nam, North and South, the Defense Department reported, the United States lost 386 fixed wing aircraft—236 of them over the North.

1,109 In Korea
In three full years of war in Korea, the United States lost 1,109 aircraft to ground fire—550 Air Force, 559 Navy and Marine. Of the total, 652 were World War II propeller types. Annual loss rate: 369.

These figures come from the Pentagon's office of statistics. There has been some confusion over the comparative loss rate, leading to reports that U.S. air losses over Viet Nam ran at 1.5 times the Korean rate. These apparently were based on a Pentagon figure of 816 aircraft lost to groundfire in Korea—a total based on estimates before records of all air units involved in Korea were studied in detail.

The 369 to 386 ratio offers a rule of thumb rather than a totally reliable index of whether the air war in Viet Nam is going better or worse than the Korean.

Air statisticians measure losses also against exposure to enemy fire—combat flights or sorties. The more exposure, the higher the expected losses.

420,000 Sorties
In Korea, American planes flew about 420,000 sorties against ground targets, plus some 69,000 in air-to-air combat operations. In this latter activity, 144 planes were lost.

There are no sortie statistics available for Viet Nam. In a July 10 news conference, Defense Secretary Robert McNamara said the June sortie rate for the 1,800 aircraft stationed in Southeast Asia was around 7,000, about 70% higher than in June.

Quite probably the annual sortie rate in Viet Nam against ground targets will be close to Korea's, especially with the present policy of limitation on targets which has exempted major industrial areas of Haiphong and Hanoi, large power dams and irrigation dams in the North. It has left pilots mostly with what they call "cheap targets"—trucks, military depots, bridges, roads and railroads.

If nothing else, the Viet Nam air war proves once more that a technically undeveloped nation, given proper weapons and training, can learn to use them effectively.

Ample Stocks
In their antiaircraft war, the North Vietnamese are using weapons ranging from 60 caliber to 85 millimeter plus some guided missiles. They apparently have ample stocks of guns and ammunition.

They apparently are also well equipped with advanced radar and with radar that controls the timing of guns.

Air strike tactics for jets haven't change appreciably since the Korean War. A jet can't come in a treetop level in pinpoint bombing runs because the high approach speed would prevent the pilot from seeing the target and using landmarks as navigational reference points. For accuracy, he must make his runs at subsonic speeds.

So the pilot attacking ground targets where accuracy is mandatory is the same old sitting duck he's always been.

SAMs Ineffective
The Soviet-supplied surface to air missiles (SAM), on the other hand, have so far been relatively ineffective. They operate most efficiently at altitudes over 10,000 feet.

There is some speculation in the Pentagon, that the Russians have withheld more advanced missiles from Hanoi lest the United States learn too much about jamming their guidance radar.

What makes the air war in Viet Nam remarkable is that it has been almost exclusively—about 99.9%—one of aircraft against antiaircraft guns.

From the outset the North Vietnamese, unlike the North Koreans and the Chinese in Korea, appear to have conceded control of the air to the United States.

In Korea the United States completely dominated the skies over the north. Despite this, the Chinese supported a million-man army at the end of a 250-mile supply line. The solutions were simple. They went underground and supplies were moved on the backs of thousands of coolies.

This is a lesson of the Korean War it is unlikely the North Vietnamese have overlooked.

Benning military reservation is being expanded by some 100,000 acres because of aceleration of the officer candidate program from an annual rate of 2,600 to about 7,000.

Grocery Store Dynamited In Jacksonville Negro Area

Jacksonville, Fla. (UPI)—A grocery was dynamited Wednesday night in a Negro neighborhood that was the scene of widespread violence and firebombings the two previous nights.

Police Capt. W. W. Anderson also reported scattered incidents of rock throwing and said at least five young Negroes had been arrested.

There were no immediate reports of injuries in the store dynamiting, and Sgt. J. T. Lower said that "the main damage seemed to be broken windows and a smashed door."

Mayor Pleaded

The dynamiting came just hours after Mayor Louis H. Ritter made a television appeal to residents of the area to keep their children off the streets and out of the troubled Negro district of this port city.

The mayor reinforced county and city police with highway patrolmen Wednesday after promising merchants their property would be protected against a recurrence of the window smashing and fire bombings that erupted in the Negro district Monday and Tuesday nights.

"I urge all responsible citizens to ask their children not to be in the areas where possible disturbances or involvement may be," the mayor pleaded on television.

Ritter made the appeal after an informal meeting at city hall with State NAACP President Rutledge Pearson, who deplored the violence of the past two nights said if he could "wave a magic wand" to prevent further disorder he would do it.

Pearson admitted, however, that "my voice is not as strong as it used to be . . . I've promised the fellows and nothing has come of the promises."

Ritter and Pearson also discussed point-by-point a list of demands that were made by Negro leaders. The demands included complete desegregation of the police force and the opening of previously closed municipal swimming pools.

Possible Picture Racket Checked By Law Officials

Police were holding a 40-year-old man Wednesday in connection with what police believe may be a swindle game.

The man and some assistants he hired locally have been soliciting and taking deposits for pictures that are supposed to be taken. Though more than one-hundred persons have thus far made deposits, no one has received any pictures, police reported.

The arrested man told police that he was waiting to get his camera repaired.

Numerous persons have notified police that they have signed contracts and given deposits and they are wondering, police said, "when they get their pictures taken."

Life Handed Four For Killing Jews

Bochum, Germany (AP)—Four Germans were sentenced to life imprisonment Wednesday for their part in the wartime murder of 1,700 Jews at the Nazi Neu Sandez death camp.

They were former police inspector Heinrich Hamann, 57, laborer Johann Bornhold, 62, retired police sergeant Bruno Baunack, 63, and engineer Josef Rouenhoff, 54.

Other defendants received prison terms ranging from three to 10 years.

Eastern U.S. Skies Clear, Temps Cool

By United Press International

Clear skies and pleasantly cool temperatures covered the eastern two-thirds of the nation Wednesday.

Torrential rains hit parts of Alabama.

Temperatures were generally in the 70s and 80s. Readings of 90-100 were confined to the southern tier of states, from Georgia to the desert Southwest.

Oklahoma City had a temperature below 100 for the first time in 20 days.

The Pacific Northwest was the coolest area, with readings in the 50s in some sections.

Clairborne, Ala., northeast of Mobile, had more than 5½ inches of rain in two hours early Wednesday.

Elsewhere, rain was light, with showers along the New England and Gulf Coasts and in the central and southern plains.

Tropical storm Celia grew to hurricane strength but was on a course that posed no threat to the U.S. mainland or the splashdown area for the Gemini 10 astronauts.

Vandals Crash Mausoleums, Move Skeletons

Northport, N.Y. (AP)—Beer-drinking vandals broke into two mausoleums in a 250-year-old cemetery here early Wednesday, strewing the ashes in one vault and propping a skeleton from another on a window sill.

Residents of the area heard the noise and called police, who chased the vandals from the Northport Rural Cemetery but were unable to apprehend them.

Police said the intruders left empty beer cans, crushed memorial candles and debris from smashed stained glass windows strewn across the floor of one mausoleum.

In one case, police said, the vandals had smashed a window, pried bars from it and broke an inch-thick marble slab covering a crypt.

Once through that they pulled out the coffin and pried open the lid. Then they removed the skeleton and propped it in the window.

From another crypt they took the ashes of a body and strewed them on the mausoleum floor.

Several years ago, burial ashes were strewn about by vandals in the same private cemetery.

"Those kids got off with a slap on the wrist," said Mayor Gilbert Scudder in recalling the earlier incident. "I hope there is strong punishment this time. This is the most gruesome thing I've ever seen."

Shriver Stops OEO Aid After Wallace Charge

Montgomery, Ala. (UPI)—Anti-poverty Director Sargent Shriver ordered over $500,000 in federal funds withheld from two Alabama counties Wednesday after Gov. George Wallace charged the money was going to groups aligned with the "black power" movement. Wallace also told newsmen the director of a $241,604 federal grant to Lowndes County was a convicted murderer.

Shriver, director of the Office of Economic Opportunity, said Wednesday the Lowndes County group had not been dispersed "and I have asked that all disbursements be held up pending completion of the investigation and submission of a report."

Both grants were made under Title III-B of the Economic Opportunity Act, which deals with migrants and farm workers who have no established community.

Wallace Equations Shriver said in New Orleans late Wednesday that Wallace was trying to equate anti-poverty training programs "with social and political movements he dislikes."

Wallace charged in a Tuesday news conference that the director of the OEO-approved Lowndes County group—called the Lowndes County

Christian Movement for Human Rights—was R. L. Strickland, convicted murderer.

Strickland, the governor said, served part of a life term for the murder conviction, but was paroled and later given a full pardon.

Wallace also accused Strickland of being the vice president of the Black Panther Party, which the governor said was aligned with the so-called "black power" movement.

Computer Will Read Translated Printed Material

Waltham, Mass. (AP)—The Air Force has awarded a contract to Sylvania Electric Products to develop a computer that will "read" printed material which is broken up by photos, equations and drawings.

The machine is to analyze foreign journals and distinguish text from illustration.

Company spokesman Dr. James E. Storer said. "The project will distinguish text from graphics and identify the various textual categories such as footnotes, captions and tables. With the format of the article determined, the Sylvania reader will identify text characters and transfer them to storage units where they can be retrieved from abstracting, indexing and translation into English. The unit will read a variety of print fonts and analyze complex page layouts automatically."

Computer Will Read Translated Printed Material

At the governor's news conference, however, reporters were given signed copies of Shriver's approval of the Lowndes grant and another letter informing Wallace that Strickland had been named program director.

The grants to Lowndes and Wilcox Counties were made under a section of the poverty program that bypasses local governmental control. Wallace said the grants would never have been approved if he had been consulted.

Sen. John Sparkman, D-Ala., said the groups "are obviously not qualified to handle the programs. While I am pleased with the action taken in suspending the grants, they should be cancelled and I intend to do all I can toward that end," the senator added.

Cuba Building Boarding Schools

Havana (AP)—Prime Minister Fidel Castro says schools for boarding students of all ages are being built in Pinar del Rio, Las Villas and Oriente provinces.

One purpose of the schools is to free women from housework and put them to work as "producers for the revolution" in factories and fields where needed, he added.

Army Sergeant Given Sea Burial

Honolulu (AP)—An Army sergeant killed in Viet Nam was buried just outside Pearl Harbor in a return to the sea he had served as a Coast Guard man.

Lincoln Names Schools After Principals, Famous Men

Thursday, July 21, 1966 The Lincoln Star 13

By LUCILLE HUTCHINSON

Star Staff Writer
It used to be famous men — but lately it seems to be longtime Lincoln principals who have been selected as namesakes for the 44 public schools.

Chosen for the distinction of being named after the founder and organizer of the Illinois Tot Dies In New Mexico Rig-Car Accident

Tucumcari, N.M. (UPI) — A two-year-old Rock Island, Ill., boy was killed and four other Illinois residents injured Wednesday when their car hit the rear of a tractor-trailer rig on U.S. 66, 11 miles west of Tucumcari.

State police identified the victim as Johnny Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Anderson of Rock Island.

Injured in the wreck were Anderson, 21; his wife, Georgia, 21; and Mr. and Mrs. Terry McFall, both 23, also of Rock Island.

Police said McFall was the driver of the car. Authorities said he apparently fell asleep at the wheel and the car hit the truck. The truck driver was uninjured.

Lincoln system was Hartley School, at 730 No. 33rd, after Ellis T. Hartley. The city educator also served as superintendent for several years.

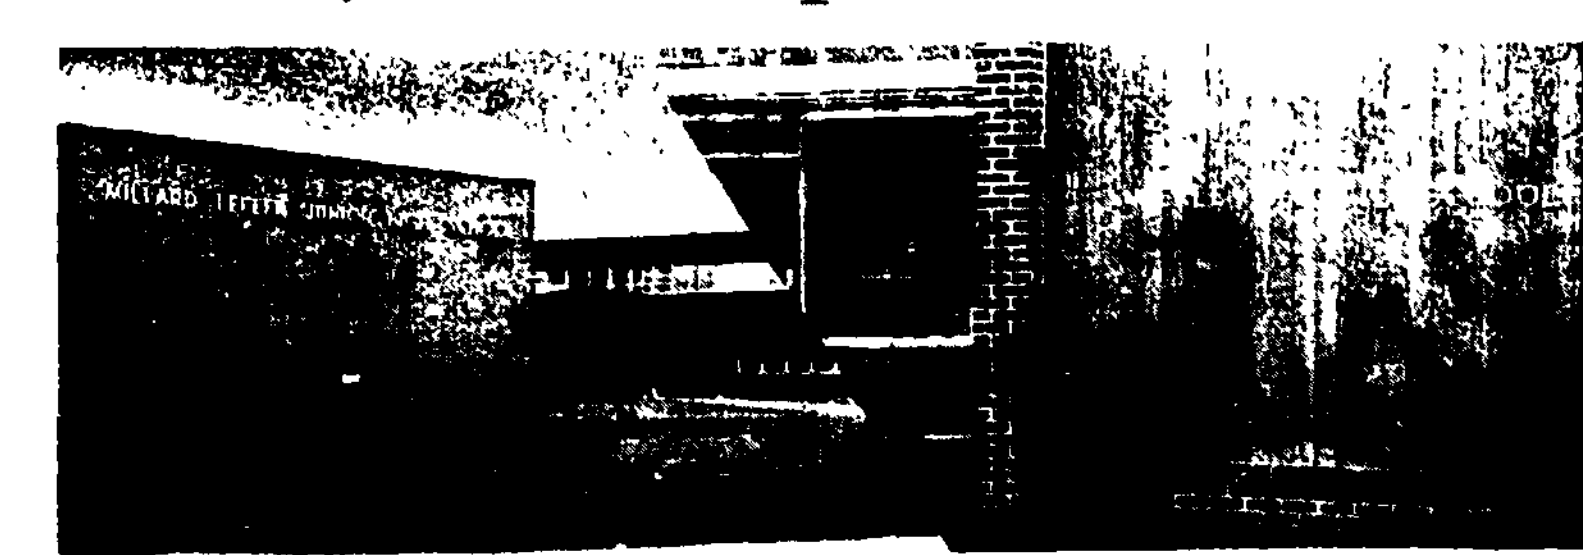

Boards of education have chosen about two-thirds of the names of school buildings now in use, dating back to 1887, in honor of famous American men, prominent Nebraskans and loyal Lincoln principals and superintendents.

The other 16 were given titles according to location near parks, streets, subdivisions or areas of town added to the school system by city annexation.

After 1929 school names were taken almost exclusively from Lincoln and Nebraska individuals and families, except for the Air Force Base school named after World War II Army Air Forces Commander Gen. Henry (Hap) Arnold and occasional deviations showing location.

Principals
Since 1955, most of the titles have been attributed to outstanding principals, including the name for the proposed junior high school in the Belmont area, after Mr. and Mrs. T. V. Goodrich.

Other principals and school administrators noted for their long and outstanding service with elementary and junior high schools named after them include Miss Clare McPhee, Mrs. May Morley, Robin Mickie, Miss Ruth Pyrtle, Charles Culler, Miss Merle M. Beattie, Miss Mary O'Connor and Miss Maude Rousseau.

SCHOOLS NAMED FOR EDUCATORS . . . Millard Leffer and Merle Beattie.

Millard Leffer, after whom a junior high was named, was superintendent for nearly 30 years.

Prominent families honored with school titles include the Brownells whose daughters taught in the Lincoln system and whose son Sam served as U.S. commissioner of education 1953-56; the Bryan family of Lincoln, and the Pound family of Nebraska.

The ground for Holmes School was given to the city by banker George W. Holmes, but the building was named after his mother Mrs. Emma H. Holmes. Another banker, Charles Dawes, names an elementary-junior high. Huntington was titled after a Nebraska Wesleyan University chancellor at the turn of the century, Dr. W. C. Huntington.

Elliott's name was taken from an elementary school that had been at 26th and O Sts., originally named for Miss Phoebe Elliott, who was elected the first Lincoln Woman's Club president in 1894.

Hayward, for several years known as the 9th and Z St. School, was named after Nebraska's U.S. Sen. Monroe L. Hayward, judge at Nebraska City. Pershing School is one of several city buildings named after Gen. John J. Pershing.

The older Lincoln schools were named for famous Americans including educator and temperance leader Miss Frances E. Willard, poet James Whitcomb Riley, author Washington Irving, statesman De Witt Clinton, statesman Edward Everett, historian William Hinkley Prescott and novelist Nathaniel Hawthorne.

Proximity to one-time streets or former locations are the reasons for some school names. Including Saratoga, Whittier, Randolph, Sheridan and Calvert. Bethany, Havelock, Belmont, Eastridge, West Lincoln and Meadow Lane are attributed to their areas of town.

The "school by the park," originally built in 1882, finally became known as Park School when names were found to be needed on buildings. Norwood Park, in the Havelock area, was built in a park.

In a category by itself is Lakeview on West Q, titled for the view of Capitol Beach lake from the school site.

High schools of Lincoln, except for Lincoln High, seem to be relegated to directors for their names, although future boards of education might have some trouble continuing the pattern if expanding population necessitates another high school further east than the new East Educational Complex.

SAVED BILLIONS MEANT MUTINY

Washington (AP) — A New York congressman tells this story of buttons and zippers, bell-bottom trousers and Pentagon claims of billions of dollars saved by cost reduction programs.

In a letter to his constituents, Rep. Otis Pike, D-N.Y., referred to $18.5 billion in savings claimed for Pentagon cost reduction programs.

But, said Pike, a close look at the savings brought out the story of buttons and zippers and a near mutiny by American sailors.

"Back in 1950," wrote Pike, "some well-intentioned but misguided progressive in the Pentagon decided the time had come to modernize the Navy." It was decided to replace the 13 buttons on bell-bottom trousers with zippers.

"Mutiny began to brew," and a poll of sailors showed "A fierce loyalty to the 13 buttons."

Navy brass backed down. "Zippers were out and the buttons were back in and the memory of the 13 colonies was preserved and enshrined on the sailors' britches," wrote Pike.

But the Navy was left with 500,000 pairs of zipper-equipped bell-bottom trousers.

"In 1965, the Navy started slipping in two pairs of zippered pants with every pair of 13-button pants issued to recruits, who were presumably not so thoroughly imbued with the traditions of the Navy," Pike said.

And now the Defense Department says that by avoiding having to sell or throw away its stock of zippered pants, he said, it has "saved" $3.5 million.

NASON ON EDUCATION:

Getting Into Right College Vital

By DR. LESLIE J. NASON

Getting into the right college is, perhaps, the most important hurdle in the educational path of a student. College admissions procedures will be more complex, but greatly improved, by the 1970s.

The process is under continuous study by the College Entrance Examination Boards and the admissions officers of the colleges—and well it should be!

and the written expression of thoughts under pressure.

Because of Jane's high grades on unit tests she had not been required to write final examinations in high school. She reached college not only without any experience in writing essay-type examinations but with no skill in the overall organization of course material that makes for permanent learning.

When a wrong student is admitted to college it is an expensive mistake. He occupies the place of a student who was not admitted and who might well have succeeded. As a result, there are at least seven frustrated persons; two students, four parents and one admissions officer.

Top marks in high school and high scores on scholastic aptitude tests are not sufficient guaranties that a college freshman will be successful. Some factors are not measured by either of these indications.

The following year the school discontinued grades in freshmen courses, giving only Pass or Fail marks. The dean of freshmen, Foster Strong, says, "We feel we are getting more natural students now. They are making better contact with the materials and are interested in learning and not in the grade as a payoff." In the first pass-fail year, the number of dropouts fell to 15%.

Jane had succeeded in high school on a "drift and cram before examinations" basis. In high school this brought her top grades, but she was an all "A" student with little knowledge of how to study. I predict that in the 1970s college admissions officers will expect principals, counselors and teachers to evaluate and report to the college a student's progress in developing skills of learning.

With a more intimate knowledge of the individual student, counselors can do a better job of getting the right student located in the right college.

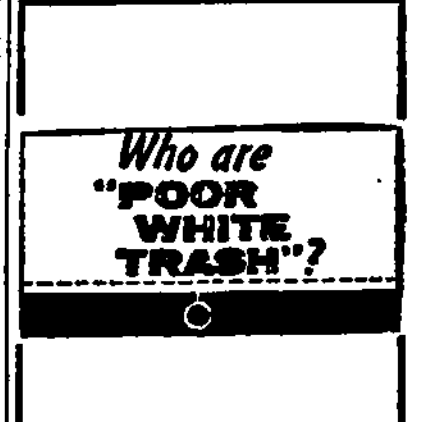

Difficulty Persists

Colleges which now choose from among students who made high grades in high school and high scores on the entrance tests still have difficulty in selecting candidates.

For example, at California Institute of Technology, about 20% of the freshmen who entered in 1963 failed to return for the sophomore year, although they were selected with great care.

My own experience shows that high grades in high school are not a sure indication that a student has developed adequate skills of learning to succeed in college. Neither is the lack of these skills brought to light through entrance tests.

Ed Service Units Can't Levy Tech School Tax

By Associated Press
Atty. Gen. Clarence Meyer held Wednesday that the tax which an educational service unit is entitled to levy under 1965 legislation creating 19 such units over the state may not be used to construct an area vocational technical school.

The Department of Justice opinion prepared for Meyer by Assistant Atty. Gen. Harold Mosher held that LB-301 permits educational service units to provide vocational technical services, but not to use their tax money to build area trade schools.

The question arose from language of LB301 which authorizes the units to supply various supplementary educational services, among which is listed "adult education including area vocational technical schools."

State Education Commissioner Floyd A. Miller asked the clarification.

Other questions relating to area trade schools authorized under the 1965 Legislature's LB581 were covered in the opinion. The findings:

—That a county is the smallest unit which may petition the state board of vocational education for the establishment of an area vocational technical school.

—That an area trade school financing bill, LB482, intends that the state limit its distribution of $500,000 in state aid to area vocational technical schools established under terms of LB581.

—That LB482 provides for the awarding of $100,000 to an area trade school for one year of a biennium or a portion thereof.

—That the state may pay the $100,000 to an area trade school when the local area has contributed at least $100,000 in any one biennium. The factual determination as to when the $100,000 local contribution has been made is a responsibility of the state board of vocational education.

Significantly, the opinion said the locally-provided $100,000 does not need to be in cash form.

"In our opinion, the reasonable value of the necessary land acquired and the necessary buildings acquired or constructed by local participation for the purpose of operating an area vocational technical school as well as actual funds to the credit of the governing board of an area vocational technical school may be taken into account in the discretion of the state board of vocational education for the purpose of determining eligibility . . .," the document said.

Nebraska's Senators Attack Humphrey's Revolt Remark

Washington (UPI)—Nebraska's two Republican senators criticized Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey Wednesday for a remark that he "might lead a pretty good revolt" if he had to live in a slum.

"Statements like this by leaders of Mr. Humphrey's prominence can only have one result," Sen. Roman Hruska said. "They will encourage the rioting and looting which has plagued our cities for the past several months. All Americans deplore poor housing conditions, but that certainly gives us no license to call on fellow Americans to revolt. If we once decide in this country that riots and looting are the only way to redress social ills then we will have surrendered to anarchy."

Sen. Carl Curtis commented, "High officials in the government, including the vice president of the United States, should never by their words or actions inflame the passions of people to revolt . . . Law and order are the first responsibilities of government. The solution to all problems, whether they be to improve conditions, maintain established rights of the individual, provide for jobs and advancement of all citizens will fail in the long run, if law and order fail."

Veteran

Hollywood (UPI) — Allen Jenkins chalked up his 178th movie appearance at MGM with a role in "Three For a Wedding."

TWO BANK CHARTERS DENIED

State Banking Director Byron Dunn Wednesday denied two bank charter applications from evidence that existing banks adequately serve the areas.

Dunn refused charters to the proposed Bank of Chapman and the Hershey Valley State Bank.

He said both Chapman and Hershey have banks which are "aggressively active . . . and adequate to supply needs" for financial services.

If both charters were granted, Dunn added, it would put an excessive number of banks in both towns and would be "prejudicial to the welfare" of the communities.

Both charter applications were presented in public hearings held by the State Banking Department.

Girl's Chicago Funeral Large

Chicago (AP)—A little girl who was killed by a stray bullet in the West Side riots had a big funeral Wednesday.

The service for Rosland Howard, 14, drew about 200 persons to the Stone Temple Baptist Church. Among them were four clergymen and an alderman.

"The hardest heart would be softened by this experience," Dr. Shelvin J. Hall, president of the West Side Ministers Conference, told the congregation. "The most rockless person would be sobered."

"We of the church," he said in his eulogy, "have to find a way to do more than we've done before."

Some in the church murmured "Amen."

"We pledge to work for the good of the community and peace and honor," Alderman George W. Collins, a Democrat of the 24th Ward, told the mourners.

Near the end of the service the congregation was told that a Rosland Howard Fund has been started for a college scholarship for one of her seven brothers and sisters. The choice will be made later.

Miss Howard, a Negro had lived in obscurity until she was felled Thursday night as she stood on a porch near her home and the church. She was one of the two persons killed during the four nights of rioting.

All but a few of the people in the church were Negroes. Most of them were adults.

A quartet sang "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot" in slow, deep, mournful, blues tones.

A spokesman for the church said the pallbearers who carried the light blue casket were members of a gang of Negro youths known as the Vice Lords.

The riot zone remained placid during the sunny day with 1,700 National Guardsmen remained on the alert in armories.

The soldiers stayed off the streets Tuesday night for the first time since troops arrived Friday. There have been no major disturbances since they came to the aid of police.

LBJ Vetoes Bill Linking Mail, Index

Washington (UPI)—President Johnson Wednesday vetoed a bill which would have linked the cost of 9,600 mail routes to the Consumer Price Index. He said it would be inflationary.

It was Johnson's first veto of the current session, his eighth of the 89th Congress and his 17th since taking office.

In returning the bill to the House, Johnson said it would "set a bad example, not only in government, but throughout our economy."

The bill would have provided more than 9,600 so-called star route postal contracts with automatic increases whenever the Consumer Price Index rose by at least one per cent. These routes, all in rural areas, are contracted for by private individuals through bids.

Johnson said that any blanket adjustment of federal contracts based on any price index was dangerous.

"Under this bill," Johnson said, "the contractor would be automatically entitled to price increases. This is not sound fiscal policy. It is not fair to those who do business with the government and it is not fair to the taxpayers."

Johnson felt that if the principle of the measure received his approval, it would open the door to similar action in the private economy and thus "fuel the fires of inflation" through automatic and unjustified wage increases.

Dobson Bid Is Apparent Low

Dobson Bros. Construction Co. of Lincoln was the apparent low bidder Wednesday for work on a paving district in 10th St., from Adams to Judson.

Dobson bid $13,907, compared to Pioneer Paving Co.'s bid of $14,052.

The paving district was the only item on the city bidding agenda.

Medical Help In Nebraska Gets Approval

State Welfare Director John Gage reported Wednesday the formal approval of Nebraska's medical assistance plan under Title 19 by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Federal funds under the 1965 Social Security Act's Title 19 provision will be available to the state for 61.76% of the cost of medical services to low-income families and individuals now on the state's public assistance roles, he explained.

Previously, Gage said, the government had matched 54.39% of the medical costs for the federally-aided state assistance programs.

The director said formal approval was effective July 1.

He estimated the state will spend $6.3 million for medical assistance to low-income families during the last 15 months of the current biennium.

This will be matched by some $11 million in federal funds under the Title 19 formula of 61.76% for Nebraska.

Nebraskans On Voyage With Speck

—Falls City —Two Falls City youths have told about a Great Lakes trip last month aboard an ore freighter on which Chicago slaying suspect Richard Speck was a crew member.

Gary Zentner, 16, and Jim Stephenson, 16, rode the freighter, the Clarence C. Randall, on an eight-day round trip from East Chicago, Ind., to Port Arthur, Canada, as guests of Capt. Harry Cheever, Gary's uncle.

When Gary returned here from the trip on June 16 he told his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Zentner, of an incident in which his uncle paid off a seaman named Speck and fired him at the conclusion of the trip. The seaman had brought liquor aboard the craft and was otherwise unsatisfactory, Gary said.

When Gary heard a news flash Saturday that a man named Richard Speck was a suspect in the murder case, he told his parents he was certain it was the same name as that of the discharged seaman. When the photo of Speck was circulated, Gary recognized it as the same man.

A telephone call to Capt. Cheever's home at Lansing, Ind., confirmed the identification.

Young Zentner said that he observed Speck numerous times during the voyage and said that he appeared to be a "loner," associating with only one member of the 33-man crew.

Wolffs Going To Peru Next Month As Missionaries

Among others assisting in the services were two brothers of Pastor Wolff, Dr. Lorin J. Wolff, vice president of the Nebraska Synod and a former missionary to Liberia, Africa, and the Rev. Wallace Wolff, chaplain at Immanuel Lutheran Hospital of Omaha and a former missionary to British Guiana.

The Wolffs will embark for South America August 25. They were engaged in mission activities in Latin and South America before coming to Tekamah in 1963.

JFK Feared Race Against Romney

New York (AP) — President John F. Kennedy is quoted as saying before the 1964 presidential election that Gov. George Romney of Michigan was "the one fellow I don't want to run against."

"Give me good old Barry," Kennedy is quoted by his undersecretary of the Navy, Paul B. Fay Jr., writing in the current issue of McCall's. Fay writes that the discussion of Romney took place in 1963 and quotes Kennedy as saying:

"That fellow could be tough. You have to be suspicious of somebody as good as Romney. No vice whatsoever, no smoking, no drinking. Imagine someone we know going off for 24 or 48 hours to fast, and meditate, awaiting a message from the Lord on whether to run or not to run. Does that sound like one of the old gang?"

The reference was in Romney's original indecision before seeking the governorship of Michigan in 1962.

Fay said Kennedy told him

In closing the subject: "That's a bit of information that is not to go any farther than this office. Let the Republicans choose their own candidate, free of outside influence."

Fay writes that after the Bay of Pigs invasion, Kennedy spoke of stepping out of office after one term.

Drive To Bolster Local GOP Groups Told

Washington (AP)—Republican National Chairman Ray C. Bliss announced a drive Wednesday to strengthen local GOP organizations in an effort to get the large nonvoting segment of the party to the polls in the 1966 congressional elections.

Bliss said the National Committee will sponsor a series of state and congressional district workshops to stimulate local organizational efforts.

There is no shortage of Republicans, said Bliss.

He pointed to surveys showing that about 30% of the eligible voters who say they are Republicans don't get to the polls election day.

"In view of the current dissatisfaction with the Johnson administration, I believe we can score a major victory next November if we get our votes to the polls," Bliss said.

Bliss said he plans to attend a statewide workshop at Greensboro, N.C., Saturday. There will be 20 statewide meetings in the series, he said, and he plans to attend as many as possible.

A statewide workshop already has been held in Hawaii.

Other states where such workshops are scheduled are Kentucky, West Virginia, New Mexico, Idaho, Montana, Wyoming, Oklahoma, Delaware, Vermont, Connecticut, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Maryland, Arizona, Nevada, Utah, Minnesota and New Jersey.

State Gets Ranch Near Fort Robinson

State Game Commission Director Mel Steen announced Wednesday the acquisition of approximately 10,300 acres of James Ranch land west of Crawford as the first step in development of a long-planned Fort Robinson State Park.

The land was purchased for $1.3 million from George A. James Sr. and his family, and federal funds will help foot the bill.

The James Ranch ties together federal and state-owned lands in a 38,000 acre Fort Robinson complex with tremendous tourist and recreational potential, Steen said.

"This day is a red letter day in the tourist trade and outdoor recreational history of the state," he said.

The only state park of such proportions in the general area is Custer State Park in South Dakota, with about 72,000 acres.

The James Ranch area has high potential for fishing, hunting, hiking, picnicking, horseback riding, camping and swimming, "and it even has potential for winter sports," Steen noted.

"This will be the biggest and best park in Nebraska history," he declared. "It is the last and only remaining opportunity to develop a park of national importance and the area has all the essentials for such development."

Three years of negotiation went into acquisition of the James Ranch land, Steen said.

The land ties together federal lands included in the Fort Robinson home base and the 10,000 acre timber reserve to the west, which originally was a part of the historic old military establishment at Fort Robinson. Additionally, the state already owns approximately 4,000 other acres in the area.

Payment for the ranch is expected to be completed by next July. Development will begin in the 1967-69 biennium "and we hope to have the area open for public use by 1971," Steen said.

Early developments will include an airfield, roads, dams for lakes, swimming pools and such features.

Soldiers Creek runs through the land and the ranch has about 1,400 acres of crop land, much of which is or can be irrigated.

Funds for the acquisition come in part from the federal land and water conservation fund, a federal grant-in-aid program. Under this 25-year program, now in its first year, the allocations to the state of Nebraska, over and above those funds allocated to political subdivisions, is expected to average $1 million a year. Matched by $1 million of state funds, this would mean $50 million in 25 years.

The northwest Nebraska park development should prove of "major economic importance" to the area, he said.

"This area is loaded with pioneer and prehistoric assets which will be preserved and developed," he said.

"But in our view, one of the deficiencies of most major state and federal parks is the lack of development for participation of the individual citizen. Most parks are essentially museums where the citizen may go to see historic things, natural phenomena or like attractions. The Fort Robinson area not only has this potential but will be developed to the fullest for 'people participation.'"

A statement released here by George A. James Sr. said:

"In light of the high potential of the Fort Robinson area as Nebraska's best park and the state's plan for development, we are making our lands available for public purposes."

"We cannot replace this property. We believe it is one of the finest cattle ranches in the west, but we know it will be developed for much higher use, and that our home state will profit by this development."

Retired State Employees' Check Delays Reported

State Insurance Director Frank Barrett said Wednesday there have been some reported delays in issuance of checks from the State Employees Retirement Fund to newly-retired employees and those claiming refunds upon termination of employment.

However, Barrett said other retirement checks to state employees appear to be on a normal schedule.

Barrett is chairman of the State Employees Retirement Board.

The retirement fund is administered by Bankers Life Insurance Company of Nebraska.

"Apparently there have been some delays because Bankers Life has not been getting the required personnel information from the various state agencies," he said.

Barrett has requested "a memorandum report from Bankers Life regarding the problems."

As soon as the report is received, Barrett said, the retirement board will meet with the Department of Administrative Services.

"As I understand it, retirement information was formerly handled by the various agencies," he said. "Now, it is apparently being routed to Administrative Services before reaching the fund carrier."

Glenn Anderson, director of State Retirement Systems, reported pension checks from funds administered by his office are on schedule.

"The June checks went out on time from Administrative Services," he said, "but the May checks were about a week late."

Anderson administers the state retirement plans for the Safety Patrol, district judges and teachers.

Fiscal Analyst Gordon Resigns

Assistant legislative fiscal analyst Gordon Arnold submitted his resignation Wednesday to accept another position.

Arnold said he would become senior administrative analyst for the city of Rochester, N.Y., effective Sept. 1.

Arnold has been a member of the fiscal analyst's staff here four years. He said an increase in salary "was a major consideration" for the job switch.

Hoax Bomb Scare Causes Evacuation

A bomb scare Wednesday at the Brunswick Corporation Plant, 430 Industrial Ave., apparently was a hoax.

However, as a precaution, Brunswick employees were evacuated shortly after the call was received at 1 p.m. Wednesday.

Lancaster County Sheriff's deputies Del Ziegan and Paul Nowakowski, aided by Brunswick officials, searched offices and plant facilities but found no bomb.

Deputy Ziegan said the Federal Bureau of Investigation had been notified of the incident. Notification of the FBI was necessary since Brunswick is under a government contract, Ziegan said.

Don Paisley, plant manager, said a variety of products used by the military are manufactured at the 50,000-square-foot plant, but he declined to say what the products are.

The call that sent employees into an adjacent parking lot was received by Miss Susie Wondra, 19, a receptionist.

She said the voice of the caller sounded muffled, but that she had no trouble understanding the voice, which she said sounded like that of a man.

"He said, 'There is a bomb in your plant,' and that's all," she told Deputy Nowakowski.

Miss Wondra immediately notified Ray Rogers, personnel manager at Brunswick, of the call. Rogers said he in turn called the sheriff. The plant was then evacuated for about an hour.

Bottle Club Bids Nixed By Liquor Commission

The Nebraska Liquor Control Commission reported Wednesday its denial of the application of the Cavern Club Inc. for a bottle club license at 2110 Winthrop Road.

The commission said it could uncover no substantial demand for a bottle club at the Rathbone Village Shopping Center location.

"Existing bottle clubs are fully adequate, at this time, to meet the needs of the community," the commission said.

During a hearing last week, the City Council recommended denial of the application on grounds it was outside the city's "permissible areas" for liquor.

While the city now has 20 bottle clubs, City Councilman John Mason advised the commission the city had not yet set a limit.

Also rejected by the commission was the application of Frances McLaughlin Corbin for a bottle club license at 1436 O.

The council had recommended denial because the club facilities would not have a separate street entrance from a beer tavern also being operated at the address.

Legislative Power Group To Study Recent Blackouts

The Legislative Council's public power study committee will meet in Lincoln Thursday night with Nebraska Power Review Board Chairman William Norton of Oscoda to discuss Nebraska's recent power blackouts.

Other members of the Power Board might also participate in the meeting, Sen. Harold Stryker of Rising City said. Stryker is chairman of the legislative study committee.

The meeting is slated for 8 p.m. at the Cornhusker Hotel.

The Power Board, at the request of Gov. Frank Morrison, is conducting a study of the reasons for last week's major power blackouts, which darkened the eastern two-thirds of the state, except for the Omaha Public Power District service area.

The report is expected to be completed later this month.

State Commission Approves Omaha Bus Fare Hike

The State Railway Commission Wednesday approved a five-cent fare increase to 25 cents per trip for "infrequent" Omaha city bus riders.

A 2½-cent per trip hike was granted for "occasional" riders who can purchase 10 fares for $2.25.

All other rates remain the same, a commission spokesman said.

Infrequent riders are those who pay cash and use the city bus line as a secondary means of transportation.

Persons who use the bus as a primary mode of transportation can still purchase 40 rides for $8. The 10-cent children's fare was also left untouched, as was the 10-cent so-called "downtown" rate.

The commission held a hearing on the Omaha Transit Co. application last Wednesday. There was no opposition to the proposed increases.

Mayor Petersen Approves Pact With Norris PPD

Mayor Dean Peterson Wednesday signed an executive order approving an agreement with Norris Public Power District of Beatrice for an engineering and economic study of areas inside and outside Lincoln which affect both Norris and the Lincoln Electric System operations.

Another order by the mayor authorized the Brown Engineering Co. of Des Moines, Iowa, to do the study.

The mayor said the agreement is important because it carries out orders of the State Power Review Board. Lincoln and Norris are the only power agencies in the state without a service area agreement.

Lincoln and Norris would share the study costs.

Award To Vorster

Cape Town, South Africa — The Afrikaans-Language Student Organization, the pro-government Die Afrikaanse Studentebond, has presented its annual award of honor to Justice Minister Balthazar Vorster because, it said, "He resembles the symbol of South Africa's resistance to subversion."

To Taped Confession

Washington (AP)—When John F. Biron at last confessed to murder, his voice was a hoarse whisper.
"Do some thinking," his police interrogators had told him the night before. Their voices had been firm but soft—their questions persistent.

Now it was morning, and Biron was telling a story of a woman beaten and left to die of exposure on a snowy Minneapolis street, a purse snatching turned to murder.

For more than an hour, a tape-recording of the questioning that led to that confession was played before a Senate subcommittee considering the impact of the Supreme Court decision on the treatment of criminal suspects.

Confession Excerpt

Only a momentary excerpt of the confession by the 18-year-old youth, on March 17, 1962, was played. Even in the hushed hearing room, his voice could barely be heard.

"He's now confessing," said Yale Kamisar, the University of Michigan law professor who played the record. "He's barely audible... to some extent the officers are dictating his confession."

"He's in such a state that he'll say anything."

Biron was convicted on the basis of his confession, but the Minnesota Supreme Court ruled it invalid. He was convicted again on other evidence.

Anti-Property Tax Petition

Secretary of State Frank Marsh reported Wednesday the Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation's initiative petitions for prohibition of a state property tax totaled 86,785 valid signatures on final count.

Earlier this month, Marsh announced the issue would go on the Nov. 8 ballot when the signatures count exceeded the 10% mark, 57,009 signatures, as required by law.

Marsh said the final tally showed 88 counties submitted signatures and 83 qualified in the drive. Only 38 counties are required in the signature distribution formula.

Less than three per cent of the signatures were rejected, he said. He complimented the organization for "professional preparation and careful circulation of the petition forms."

He noted that in other petition drives as many as 20% of the signatures have been rejected.

Good news. The Loch Ness monster has been seen again. It's a gloomy summer in Scotland if the monster is not sighted.

I drove by the famous lake a couple of years ago. Though it was early in the season, several cameras had been set up to photograph the beast if he would be so monstrously obliging.

The cameras were manned night and day by teams of monster buffs. They lived beside the equipment in tents. At the height of the summer, there are a dozen or more cameramen. Lenses are trained on the lake. Awaiting the Creature with Seven Humps. He is amiable when sighted. Swims with a slow, lazy crawl.

"The monster was sighted," writes my correspondent, "by four people driving at night along the Loch near Inverness."

"There was one photographer in the group — sadly she'd left her camera home that evening."

"They all agree on details, however. The usual white splash as the monster surfaced. It was described as three humps, about 10 feet apart. Weather clear. Visibility unlimited."

The monster usually is described as having seven humps. Could be this was the swing shift monster.

It's a grey misty country up there. All birch and Scottish fir. The land now is buttery with patches of yellow gorse and broom.

If you're in search of the source of Scotch whisky (which I was), you pass by the Loch on the way to the North Sea. In this country, the river Spey is full of salmon and some peculiar water quality which blends with barley malt to produce Scotland's favorite product.

Just above the Loch is the gloomy moor of Rannoch where the Campbells treacherously slaughtered the MacDonalds.

It started one of the most peculiar dinner services and place settings you ever heard of.

I was riding with a rosy-cheeked, husky Scotsman named John who stopped at each wayside inn and urged me to "take a wee dram."

He pointed out the bleak pass where the river Coe cuts through the moor.

"The MacDonalds were meetin' the Campbells for a peace treaty at the pass. Ahnd the Campbells coom out o' the heels ahnd massacred them."

"Since that day when a MacDonald has a Campbell t'deneer, he sets the table with the knife pointin' ut him. T'remind him o' the treachery," said John. "Shall we stop here ahnd have a wee dram?"

He said that Scotland was full of such tales of blood and slaughter and treacherous happenings.

He said William Wallace was taken by treachery.

"In the great year 1314, they took him to the Tower o' London ahnd chopped him in four parts. Ahnd each part they sent to a corner o' the kingdom and buried them."

Fortunately for his story, there was a roadside inn around the bend called "1314" — many inns are so named for the treacherous year.

"We'll stop here," said John, "ahnd have a wee dram."

The chopping of William

Wallace and other events put the Scottish people in a bad humor with the English. And, though they sell them Scotch whiskey, they don't necessarily sit down and drink it with them.

They drink it with each other. John told me the toast that goes with it. "Here's tae us!" "Wha's like us?" "De'il the aye!" "And they're all dead." "And the Englishman says, 'Thank God!'"

Rural Power Finance Bill Faces Test

By BERNARD BRENNER
United Press International

Washington (UPI) — An administration-backed plan to authorize a new multi-billion-dollar financing program for rural electric co-operatives faces a crucial test on Capitol Hill Thursday.

On that day the House Agriculture Committee is to begin consideration of the controversial measure in closed session, and the committee's chairman, Rep. Harold D. Cooley, D-N.C., says the bill "definitely is in trouble."

Cooley said in an interview Wednesday that he personally is ready to revise the measure to attract enough support to get it through, but that some other committee members want to postpone action or turn it over to a special study group.

If the study group proposal is adopted, Cooley plans to suggest that a panel of experts from outside Congress be asked to take on the job.

The bill would create a second, supplemental source of financing for rural co-ops. It would not disturb the existing program of the Rural Electrification Administration (REA), which would continue to lend money to rural generating co-ops at the law rate of two per cent.

The new lending source would be a rural electric bank, financed initially by government stock purchases and by funds borrowed from the commercial money market. Some of the new bank's loans would be at full commercial rates, while others would be made at "intermediate" rates of up to four per cent. The bill would also provide a similar bank for rural telephone credit.

Most rural co-ops are pressing for passage of the supplemental financing plan. But investor-owned electric companies have launched a hot counter-attack against it. They claim it will open the door to even wider government-subsidized competition with private industry.

Czechs Top List In Beer-Drinking

Prague (AP) — Czechoslovaks had the biggest beer consumption in the world last year, the Czechoslovak news agency C.T.K. reported.

On an average, the Czechs drank 130.4 liters per person, but in West Bohemia (where the Pilsen brewery is located) the beer consumption was an average 191.4 liters.

Wesleyan, Lane College Exchange Program Told

By Associated Press
Nebraska Wesleyan University of Lincoln and Lane College of Jackson, Tenn., will exchange some personnel and ideas during the coming year under a government-encouraged program designed to strengthen developing institutions.

Lane College is a Negro institution with an enrollment of 640. Nebraska Wesleyan is a predominantly white college with an enrollment of 1,480. Under the project which designates Lane as the developing institution, a $30,698 grant will be provided for the coming year under Title III of the Higher Education Facilities Act of 1965, with each institution putting up an additional $5,000.

"The principal thrust of the program is one of exchange of people and ideas," said Dr. Milton D. Evans, NWU dean of student affairs and project coordinator.

"We hope to extend educational opportunities, to strengthen both institutions, to broaden the horizon of students, faculty and administration, and to achieve better understanding between two sections of our country and between two racial groups."

Major emphasis will be on exchanges of students, faculty and administrators.

Lane and NWU have been exchanging students for the past three years, the first such Negro-white exchange among Nebraska colleges.

The new program extends the exchanges to some faculty members and involves also some workshops, an athletic exchange between basketball teams, a possible choir exchange and a number of joint meetings of student government leaders and other personnel.

"We think the program will have certain catalytic properties which profit both colleges," Dr. Evans said.

State Averages 1.06 Drivers For Every Vehicle

There were 1.06 licensed drivers for every motor vehicle registered in Nebraska at the end of last year, the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads reported Wednesday.

The national average was 1.11 operators.

The averages in neighboring states were Colorado and Iowa, 0.99; Kansas, 1.01; Missouri, 1.17, and South Dakota 1.02.

The bureau said Nebraska had an estimated 895,791 driver licenses in effect during 1965 and 847,935 registered vehicles.

President Signs Aid For Libraries

Washington (U) — President Johnson signed Wednesday legislation providing $700 million to improve the nation's libraries and their services.

The money would be available between now and 1971, Johnson noted in a statement, to raise physical standards of libraries, replace outmoded buildings, and help provide 40 million square feet of library space.

At the same time, Johnson announced he plans to name a national library commission to provide advice and planning looking toward "an effective and efficient library system for the future."

The bill provides $300 million over five years for grants to states for library construction; $275 million for library services; $75 million for grants to help provide library services to physically handicapped, the blind and those in orphanages, hospitals, prisons and training schools, and $50 million to encourage co-operation among libraries.

KATZENBACH... makes a point.

Justice Watching Cuban Race Revolutionaries' Activities

Washington (UPI) — Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach said Wednesday the Justice Department was watching the activities of a revolutionary group, reportedly directed from communist Cuba, that advocates Negro uprisings in the United States.

He told the House Committee on Un-American Activities, however, he did not believe the organization — the Revolutionary Action Movement (RAM) — masterminded recent racial violence in major U.S. cities.

"We are aware of this organization," Katzenbach said. "I am inclined to think public accounts about it have rather overstated its membership and effectiveness."

Somebody Effective

"Well, somebody has been very effective recently in Los Angeles, Chicago and Cleveland," replied Rep. Joe D.

Pool, D-Tex. The attorney general did not disavow implications raised by Pool that the group might have been involved in Negro riots.

Katzenbach's disclosure came during questioning on a bill introduced by Rep. Edwin E. Willis, D-La., to curb activities of the Ku Klux Klan and similar secret terrorist groups.

The measure, drafted after a year-long inquiry into Klan operations, is virtually assured of House passage when it reaches the floor, probably in August. Senate action is unlikely.

Katzenbach told the House committee he believed the administration's pending 1966 civil rights bill would be more effective against the Klan. The committee measure raises questions about its constitutionality and enforcement, he said.

ities of some of these youth-gangs has all been masterminded by Mr. Williams in Cuba."

Negro Fugitive

He was referring to Robert H. Williams, a Negro fugitive from a kidnap charge in North Carolina who has made radio broadcasts from Havana urging a Negro revolt. Williams now is on his way to Peking from Moscow.

Pool referred to reports that RAM appeared to be under Williams' direction.

In Chicago, Police Superintendent O. W. Wilson was asked Tuesday about reports that RAM members had plotted to spread and intensify the violence in the city's West Side. He said militant groups may have taken part in the rioting but he did not believe any group had planned it.

In the Senate, Sen. Herman E. Talmadge, D-Ga., called on President Johnson to make a personal appeal soon for an end to Negro rioting, which Talmadge said is "spreading like cancer throughout America."

Delaware Challenges Electoral Plan

Washington (UPI) — Delaware asked the Supreme Court Wednesday to "open the door" to reorganization of the present system for choosing a U.S. president.

State Atty. Gen. David P. Buckson, a Republican, filed suit directly in the Supreme Court against the 49 other states to effect a change in the way votes are counted in the Electoral College.

The Constitution gives each state as many electoral votes as it has senators and representatives.

The electors usually have voted in a bloc for the candidate with a popular plurality in their state—the "winner-take-all" system. As a result, candidates woo the heavily populated states with the largest number of electors.

Buckson told the court this "state unit vote system debases the national voting rights and political status of Delaware's citizens and those of other small states."

He told reporters earlier he expects some other small states to join in his complaint.

The complaint said the strategic importance of large states has generally prevented both major parties from nominating presidential and vice presidential candidates from small states. Delaware and eight of the other 13 original states have never had one of their citizens elected president, it noted.

Outlaw Threats

The administration bill would outlaw a racially motivated use or threat of force against anyone, such as Negroes and civil rights workers, seeking to exercise their rights.

The Klan bill would prohibit acts of terrorism and harassment by members of clandestine organizations and make it a federal crime to advocate the use of force or violence to achieve such a group's goals.

Katzenbach was asked whether the Klan bill was broad enough to cover such groups as the Revolutionary Action Movement. He said he would study the matter, but added:

"I wouldn't want to create the impression that the activ-

Delay Of Office Site Choice Hit

By DENNIS J. OPATRY
United Press International
The chairman of the Legislative Council Executive Board said Wednesday he's "disturbed" that the Capitol Building Commission has not elected a site for the proposed state office building.

Sen. William B. Hasebrook commented after the commission delayed for at least 60 days a decision on where to place the multi-million dollar structure.

The executive board had urged the commission to act swiftly so work could begin this year.

Some members of the Legislature, which approved a special building fund levy last year to fund the job, have accused the commission of procrastination.

"I'm sorry we can't get started on the office building," Hasebrook said. "It disturbs me that we have to keep putting it off."

Didn't Know
However, the West Point lawmaker conceded the 1965 Legislature acted without knowledge of the city of Lincoln's plan for a city-state building north of the Capitol.

Mayor Dean H. Petersen, backed by the City Council, has suggested the commission defer a site location decision until he has adequate time to detail the plan.

Basically, the mayor wants a high-rise structure erected along 15th St. The city would own the land plus the first five stories, which would be used largely for parking. The state would build additional floors for office space.

Petersen said the proposal could save the state as much as $1.5 million — maybe more.

Hasebrook admitted the estimated savings is appealing. He said he would like to review the city plan.

Quick Decision
Governor Morrison, building commission chairman, said it would not be in the public interest to make a quick decision on where to locate the office building, which is needed to relieve crowded conditions in the Statehouse.

He said a review of the 1965 legislative funding act disclosed sufficient money may not be available to construct a $4 to $5 million structure envisioned by architects.

Hasebrook noted that under present law, any new state office building must be located adjacent to the Capitol and on state-owned land.

"Our hands are tied as far as going anywhere else. It will be up to the next Legislature to make a change if it's sold on the proposal," he said.

The veteran legislator also said Nebraska voters could cut off the building's revenue source by rejecting the state property tax in November.

He said this would leave the matter of funding more or less up in the air.

Mighty Mite
College Station, Tex. (UPI) — These days, research grants of millions of dollars are common, but at least one gift to Texas A & M University is doing some good for much less. The college has a $15 grant from the Caroline Mounties 4-H Club of Ridgeley, Md., to help fight swamp fever, a disease that frequently strikes thoroughbred horses and has claimed some valuable animals. Texas A & M said the 4-H clubbers' gift would buy some filters needed for a research microscope.

235 Millers Striking At Gooch Plant

Operations at the Gooch Milling and Elevator Company, 540 South Street, were halted Wednesday when 235 members of the American Federation of Grain Millers went out on strike.

Union Local 31 Business Agent Harold Simpson said the strike resulted from a dispute over wages and working conditions. He declined to be specific.

However, he said that "the difficulty is more in things other than cents per hour. All of them put together put us quite a ways apart."

Simpson said the strike could last anywhere from a few days to a couple of months. Picketing will be continued on a 24-hour-a-day basis, he said.

H. B. Lilly, Gooch president, said management has no comment now on the walk-out.

The strike is the first in the 20-year history of the union local at the Gooch plant, according to Simpson.

A strike vote was taken July 10 and authorization for the walkout came from national headquarters Tuesday night, Simpson said. The union represents all Gooch employees except management and night watchmen.

Only union employees still working were those in the boiler room which supplies steam and heat for Gooch Food Products Company, a division not affected by the strike.

Simpson said the union's two-year contract expired July 1, and the strike followed five negotiating sessions which failed to produce agreement on a new pact.

No further negotiating sessions are scheduled at this time, Simpson said.

Grange Gives Alternate Plan For Taxation

The Nebraska Grange Wednesday outlined what it described as the most equitable tax approach if the 1965 income and property taxes are voted out in November.

Grange Master Albert J. Ebers of Seward said the fairest system would be one based on an income tax with these characteristics:

—Payment based on total income before any personal exemptions.

—A slightly graduated rate: two per cent on the first $5,000, four per cent on $5,000 to $10,000 and six per cent over $10,000. Percentages would vary according to the amount of spending. The rate would be set yearly in much the same manner as the property tax is now set.

—Withholding provisions and a fixed rate tax on corporations in line with other states.

Ebers said the Grange's income tax would incorporate all the "good features" of a sales tax without including its regressive characteristics.

However, he also said the Grange supports the income tax act passed by the 1965 Legislature. He indicated it could be improved at future sessions.

Hearings Set On Livestock Auction Market Licenses

The State Agriculture Department announced Wednesday it will hold a double hearing Friday in the State Capitol to determine if two livestock auction market licenses should be revoked.

Jack Finnigan, department attorney, said the license of Leslie W. Horn, who operates the McCook Livestock Commission Co., will be considered for revocation. Finnigan said the company has not been conducting business.

He also said the license held by Cal Ray, operator of the Lincoln Livestock Commission Co., will be reviewed. That company's surety bond has been suspended, Finnigan said.

Hungarians Back

Budapest (AP)—Of the estimated 200,000 Hungarians who fled in the 1956 anti-Soviet uprising, 69,030 have returned to Hungary, the Communist Party newspaper Nepszav said in the first of a series of articles titled "Returning Defectors." It said those who escaped mostly live in capitalist countries such as the United States and Canada.

We torture-test Wards merchandise for you in our own labs! For instance, a mattress can't be called Style House® until our giant testing machine puts its stamp of approval on it. This machine beats and twists every sleepable inch with 24 tons of steel per minute, for weeks, until any below-par mattress shows its true stripes. But when the machine loses, you win—with another Wards item we can offer to you with full assurance of complete satisfaction... or your money back!

Sunday brunch on the patio

On a bright and shiny week-end morning, ask a few friends in for brunch. It's a wonderfully easy, relaxed way to start a day.

Serve food that's pretty and easy to make. Curried Beef and Avocado on Toast Points fills the bill perfectly and is inexpensive as well.

It's a sensational way to serve dried beef! The cream sauce is easy-made in minutes. At serving time, arrange avocado slices on buttered toast and top with the beef mixture. Garnish each plate with fresh fruit kabobs, extra toast points, a bit of parsley or mint, and wheel the brunch to the patio. Be sure to make enough for guests with husky appetites who will want seconds. Pretty, and good too!

CURRIED BEEF AND AVOCADO ON TOAST POINTS

- 1 jar (5 ounce) sliced dried beef
- 1/4 cup chopped onion
- 1/4 cup butter or margarine
- 1/4 cup flour
- 1 teaspoon curry powder, or as desired
- 1/8 teaspoon pepper
- 2 1/2 cups milk
- 2 medium ripe avocados, peeled
- Lemon juice
- 12 slices buttered hot white or raisin toast
- 6 fresh fruit kabobs (directions below)

Cover dried beef with boiling water and drain immediately. Tear dried beef into bite-size pieces. Sauté onion in butter or margarine until tender, not brown. Blend in flour and seasonings. Add milk and cook slowly until sauce is thickened, stirring constantly. Stir beef into sauce and heat. Cut avocados in half lengthwise; remove pits. Cut each avocado half into 3 lengthwise slices and brush with lemon juice. Place half of the toast slices on serving plates. Arrange three avocado slices on each toast slice. Spoon dried beef mixture over avocado. Cut remaining toast slices into toast points. Garnish plates with toast points, fresh fruit kabobs and parsley or mint. Yield: 6 servings.

FRESH FRUIT KABOBS

Thread bite-size pieces of favorite fresh or canned fruits into 6 or 8-inch skewers. Fruits shown are fresh strawberries, canned sliced pineapple pieces and cantaloupe chunks. If preferred, maraschino cherries, wedges of orange or grapefruit, and pineapple could be used.

Some 'Peachy' Recipes

Fresh peaches are delicious as is, but those of us who are born lily-gliders will want to try these recipes.

FRESH PEACH PETAL CAKE

- 1 1/2 lbs. (about 6 medium) fresh peaches
- 2 cups sugar
- 1 cup water
- 1/4 cup butter, melted
- 1/2 cup light brown sugar, firmly packed
- 1/2 cup butter, softened
- 2 eggs
- 1 egg yolk
- 1 teaspoon grated fresh lemon peel
- 1 teaspoon pure vanilla extract
- 1 1/2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
- 1 1/2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 3/4 cup milk
- Whipped cream

Peel peaches and slice into eighths. There should be about 2 cups. Bring 1 cup of the sugar and water to boiling point; reduce heat and simmer 5 minutes. Add peaches; cover and cook 3 to 5 minutes or until almost tender. Drain. Pour the melted butter into 9-inch layer cake pan. Sprinkle with light brown sugar. Arrange peaches on top. Cream the 1/2 cup butter. Gradually beat in remaining 1 cup sugar. Add whole eggs and egg yolk; beat well. Stir in lemon peel and vanilla. Sift together flour, baking powder, and salt. Add to creamed mixture alternating with milk starting and ending with flour. Blend well after each addition. Pour over peaches. Bake in preheated moderate oven (375 degrees F.) 1 hour or until cake springs back when pressed gently in the center. Remove to rack; let stand 15 minutes. Turn upside down on serving plate. Serve topped with whipped cream.

FRESH PEACH PUDDING

- 1 1/2 lbs. (about 16 medium) fresh peaches
- 1 1/4 cups sugar
- 2 1/2 tablespoons tapioca

- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
- 1/2 cup butter

Sliced fresh peaches for garnish
Slice peaches. Combine peaches with 3/4 cup of the sugar, tapioca and salt. Turn into 10x6x2-inch baking dish. Mix remaining 1/2 cup sugar with flour. Add butter and cut to resemble coarse crumbs. Sprinkle crumbs over peaches. Bake in preheated moderate oven (375 degrees F.) 1 hour and 20 minutes or until peaches are tender and crumbs are brown. Garnish with slices of fresh peaches.

STUFFED FRESH PEACHES

- 1 1/2 lbs. (about 6 medium) firm ripe fresh peaches
- 1/2 cup dry fine cake, cookie or macaroon crumbs
- 1/4 cup finely chopped unblanched almonds
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 1/2 cup white or sherry wine or fresh orange juice

Zabaglione Sauce

Peel peaches. Cut in half and remove pits. Place in baking pan. Combine crumbs and almonds and spoon into cavities. Mix sugar and wine and spoon over top of each half peach. Cover and bake in a preheated moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 20 minutes. Serve topped with Zabaglione Sauce.

ZABAGLIONE SAUCE:

- 3 egg yolks
- 3 tablespoons sugar
- 3 tablespoons sweet sherry wine

Place egg yolks and sugar in top portion of double boiler. Beat with rotary beater 5 to 8 minutes or until thick and lemon colored. Gradually add wine and thoroughly beat again. Place over hot water (Not boiling). Beat and cook about 5 minutes or until mixture begins to thicken. Remove from hot water and cool. Chill and serve over Stuffed Fresh Peaches.

In the picture with Mr. and Mrs. Charles House are their sons Chuck, Jimmy, Steven, Robbie and David.

BY BARBARA TREBELHORN

No telephone service, a staff of three servants and friends who are experiencing the transition from primitive ways to modern living characterize the daily life of Lincoln visitors, Mr. and Mrs. Charles House and their five sons, when they are home in Nsukka, Nigeria. Mrs. House is the former Jane Hornby, and the family is in Lincoln visiting her mother, Mrs. Carmen Hornby.

The town of Nsukka is a modern community compared to Nigeria's outlying districts. Its largest institution is the University of Nigeria which hosts faculty members with worldwide homelands and credentials, but is supported largely by Michigan State University. As a faculty member of MSU, Mr. House chairs the department of humanities at the Nigerian university. He is a graduate of the University of Nebraska.

Under the direction of Mr. House the University's program in the humanities has been shaped to meet one of Africa's major needs. That problem, as Mr. House explained it, is westernization which has caused many students to reject native traditions, even though they are yet unable to embrace western culture.

With a study of the history of both African and western arts and letters, the University's aim is to provide the students with a background which will enable them to apply aspects of both cultures to the emerging African society.

The influence of western culture may be seen in the effect that fads have upon Nigerian teen-agers. The younger students often reject traditional habits such as braided locks for wigs which make them appear straight-haired, or "wear their skirts much shorter than their mothers would like them," Mrs. House observed. But, both Mr. and Mrs. House have noticed a recent trend among the older students towards donning traditional robes in lieu of western dress and changing Christian names to African.

Noting a difference between Nigerian and American women Mrs. House said, "so many of the American wives jump into community activities while their Nigerian counterparts tend to be more home-centered." In this respect, Nigeria has not changed Mrs. House, a past president of Towne Club, for community activities account for much of her time. She leads a Girl Guide Troop, sings in a community chorus, and works with the hospital auxiliary.

Although two sons, Chuck, 14 and David, 13, are away most of the year at Hillcrest Boarding school in Jos, Nigeria, three other sons, Steven, 11, Jim, 9 and Robbie, 8, remain at home attending the University's staff school and keeping their mother busy.

For these and other reasons the family maintains a staff of three servants. The primary explanation, as Mrs. House pointed out, is that with no hot running water, commercial baking or telephone service, shopping and housekeeping take much longer and servants are a necessity.

"If we didn't maintain a servant staff," Mr. House added, "we wouldn't be doing our share to help the Nigerian economy. As it is we're supporting three other families for an amount equivalent to about $25 a month."

Bartering adds to the excitement of being in Nigeria, as well as the time spent shopping, according to Mrs. House. Nothing is marked for price. Cost is decided on a give and take proposition between the customer and the shopkeeper.

This aspect of Nigerian life points to what the Houses consider to be one of the most pleasant aspects of living in Africa. That is, according to Mr. House, that people and personal relationships are tremendously important there. "The quality of a relationship is stressed rather than its efficiency," he said.

Mrs. House agrees with this statement, adding that the most difficult part of changing from American to Nigerian society is not necessarily going there, but rather coming back to the U.S. and trying to keep up the rapid pace.

The Houses will leave Lincoln this weekend for their return flight home. They will probably take advantage of the trip to make a short stopover in Rome.

Pucci Previews In Rome

Florence, Italy—Emilio Pucci put legs in the limelight in the fall-winter fashion collection he previewed for international buyers and press Sunday, says Sheila Walsh, UP fashion writer.

The Florentine nobleman kept the focus on lots of leg by encasing them in silk tights in kaleidoscope prints. Pucci, probably the world's most exclusive and expensive casual wear designer, has practically outlawed pants.

Tights have taken over from the slim, classic pants that Pucci himself launched into high fashion more than a decade ago. Pants are now only permissible for skiing or for evening. In the latter case they must be either harem pants or flared.

That jet set status symbol—the little silk jersey printed Pucci sheath—follows the trend and now comes with a hem inches above the knee and matching tights.

Pucci's fabrics come in the multi-colored, intricately patterned prints that have become his hallmark. The Marquis manages to juggle half a dozen contrasting or even clashing colors in one print. Pink, purple and orange shades seemed to be the favorites for this season.

Pucci's firework-patterned tights even appeared with a sedate navy wool town suit and an almost puritanical tweed grey long skirt and jacket outfit.

The designer began to bare things for after dark clothes. One silvery silk harem pants ensemble had a neckline that was slit to well below the navel. A little black cocktail dress that covered only slightly more flesh than a bathing suit had an irregular hemline that started very short and became even shorter.

For evening clothes with a 21st century look Pucci used gilded leather.

Pucci's ski outfits were predominantly black and white and trim pants were allowed. For nervous skiers or aspiring bob-sledders, he teamed all his ski clothes with white crash helmets.

For the beach Pucci suggested the silk print bathing suit that was one-piece in front and a bikini in back, the hooded one-piece bathing suit or the classic brief bikini.

The hair styles of the Pucci collection often recalled the pretzel. Braids of hair jutted out from the head and circled around in intricate patterns. In another variation, one braid would stand up straight on the head and cascades of hair would flutter from it like the plumes on the helmet of a Ruritanian general in dress uniform.

Gina Lollobrigida was in a front row seat for the Pucci collection.

Texas-born Evan Tiziani opened his boutique collection with the maximum coat over the minimum skirt. In scarlet wool his double breasted, brass buttoned coat was long enough to cover the calf of the leg. Under it was matching, two piece miniskirt outfit. Striped knee socks and long, striped British university scarfs completed the outfit.

DEAR ABBY

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: There are so many people in their sixties alone and lonely for companionship, and I know why.

I am a man, nearly 65. I am retired and on Social Security. I own an old car and work a few hours to keep it running.

For the past three years I've been trying to find a lady to go steady with, but I've given up. I can't afford it.

I have met a lot of women my age, and they are wonderful company. But the trouble is, they all expect a man to take them out a couple of nights a week, wine them and dine them, go to drive-in movies, and for drives and lunches.

One of them said, "My company should be worth that much." Well, how about MY company?

I wouldn't expect a woman to share car expenses, but if we both have about the same incomes and stretched a dollar, we could have a wonderful time if we shared expenses. Neither one of us is a prize package anymore. Why act like it?

J. IN SAN DIEGO
DEAR J.: You'd be surprised how many women in their sixties would buy the deal you propose. Why don't you lay all your cards on the table? You could draw a queen.

DEAR ABBY: How much do you think parents should know about their married children's financial affairs? I would appreciate a published reply. The interested parties might recognize themselves and take the hint. Thank you.

"YOUNG MARRIEDS"
DEAR "YOUNG MARRIEDS": This depends entirely on whether or not the parents of the young marrieds contribute in any way to their support. If they do, they have a right to know where their money goes. If not, the financially independent young people should have the privilege of privacy.

Troubled? Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

NEWS

of suburban areas

Mr. and Mrs. Denny and their daughter will accompany the girls to Lincoln next weekend and remain for a short visit.

Vacations and guests from as far away as Korea mark today's news from other areas in southeastern Lincoln.

KIMBALLCREST

Mr. and Mrs. Earl McPherson have been having a number of out-of-town visitors recently, among them Mrs. Nola Zlab, formerly of Beatrice, and her two daughters. Mrs. Zlab and the girls returned recently to their home in Newburg, Ore. While in Lincoln, they were also guests of Mrs. Zlab's aunt, Mrs. Oma Dell.

Currently in Lincoln is another relative — Mr. McPherson's cousin — Mrs. Gladys McPherson. Mrs. McPherson traveled to Lincoln from Seoul, Korea, where she is a teacher in the US Dependents' school. Mrs. McPherson, a former teacher in the Lincoln public schools will return to Seoul on July 22, if she is able to make flight reservations.

Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Laws returned home last Thursday from their six-week vacation at the Jolly Fisherman Lodge on Big Elbow Lake, Minn. Mrs. Laws reports that fishing was really first rate during the early days of June, but slowed down as the season progressed. A slackening in the number of bites didn't make the vacation less enjoyable, however, for the Laws really don't like to eat the fish they catch. The major purpose of the vacation was just to relax.

PARK MANOR

When the umpire calls, "Play Ball!" twice weekly at Holmes Park he's not only calling the start of the Little League baseball game, but he's also signaling the beginning of the evening's social event for the neighborhood's gathering of parents. Little League season in the Park Manor area not only means fun and exercise for the young boys between 8 and 10, it also has become practically a tradition for moms and dads to use the cheering section as a chance to chat.

Some fans, who have become regular customers of the Holmes Park diamond, because their sons are the star attractions, are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Calkins, Mr. and Mrs. Dolan Hume—recent arrivals to Lincoln from Las Vegas, Nev.—Mr. and Mrs. Herb Henry, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Beal, Mrs. Shirley McWilliams, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Way, Mr. and Mrs. Chuck Mulvaney and Mr. and Mrs. Willis Moreland. Rumor has it that the minor league team is putting in a good summer season with a winning record, while their major league counterparts have gotten off to a slow start due to the summer camp toll among team members.

Batting in another league, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Frohlich have temporarily lost a daughter, but they'll be gaining cousins in the near future. To explain the situation further, the Frohlich's daughter, Diane, 15, is in Des Moines, Ia., visiting cousins. Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Denny and their daughter, Barbara, also 15, accompanying Diane to Des Moines was her neighborhood friend, Sharon Holroyd.

WHY Grow Old?

questions and answers day

Josephine Lowman

Q. Does foundation make-up dry the skin? I have dry skin and a wrinkle problem because I smile easily; when I do, my whole face breaks up. I am 31 years old and have had some wrinkles for several years. I use cleansing cream instead of soap and water and also lubricating cream. I have a good complexion but think that makeup would improve my appearance. I have not used it in the past. However, I do not want my skin to get any drier.

A. You need not fear that today's makeup will dry the skin. To the contrary, many makeup foundations or bases contain moisturizing agents which are especially corrective to dry complexions. Many women use these in order to avoid dryness. AND, don't give up that responsive delightful smile!

Q. I decided to start on your Eight-Week Beauty Improvement Plan a week ago and was very pleased to discover that I lost four pounds in that week and never was really hungry. My only trouble is that my sweet tooth never seems to be satisfied and always seems to be my downfall.

A. Do you have any suggestions about this? How about dates or hard candy to overcome this craving for something sweet? I'm sure that others have this problem. Please discuss it in your column.

A. Dates are high in calorie count. So are some hard candies, at least some are higher in count than others. The old favorite, the sour ball or lemon drop, has only about 14 calories to each one. If you have two of these after lunch and two after dinner you will not have upped your calorie intake very much. The artificial sweeteners are also helpful. The sweet tooth is just habit. After doing without concentrated sweets for a while you won't miss them.

Q. Why do people get ingrown toenails when they don't file their toenails straight across; they don't get ingrown toenails and they aren't cut straight across the top.

A. I suppose it is because of the pressure on the feet which the hands do not have.

Q. I exercise daily in an effort to control my hips and waist. I have been quite successful. I find it extremely difficult, however, to keep my face thin. I am 26 years old, a male and in perfect health. What do you suggest?

A. There is no way to reduce the face except by a general loss of weight, and you do not seem to need that. However, you should NOT wear a crew cut, but rather have your hair high on top, a moderate pompadour. This will make your face appear slimmer.

Q. Please give me your advice. I am 18 years old, 5 feet 9 and throughout this year, I have been rather dispirited. Viewing me from the toes up one would observe a fairly well-built young man, that is until you come to the face. My face consists of a normal forehead, nose, eyes, and two large pieces of flab which I suppose could be called cheeks.

A. My kind mother advised me about your facial exercises. I have been doing these for two months now, but I haven't seen any difference. Should I continue these for a longer period or is there anything else I could do?

A. A crestfallen young man would appreciate any advice. On the whole, girls delight in comely young men only.

A. Continue the exercises. You haven't given them enough time. Many readers have been helped by them. You indicated that you weren't overweight. Perhaps this is just the normal shape of your face. Plastic surgery would be the only other solution I can think of.

B. But don't be crestfallen. You are wrong about the gals. Nothing intrigues them as much as thoughtfulness in a man. Be good company, develop your sense of humor, and be thoughtful in many little ways. Those which cost some thought and awareness are the most appreciated.

The bidding:
Opening lead — jack of diamonds.

There are hands in which you deliberately lose a trick you don't have to lose in exchange for a trick you do have to lose, the result of which is that you pick up a trick in the process.

This two-for-one exchange is certainly a worthwhile transaction when you can arrange it. Here is an example of how the deed is done.

Let's say you're in four hearts and West leads the jack of diamonds. When you finesse the queen, it loses to the king and back comes a diamond which you take with the ace.

It now looks as though you might have to lose two diamonds and two spades to go down one, but naturally you start to look for ways and means of saving a trick. It does seem that there should be some way of utilizing the Q-J of clubs, and that is exactly what you try to do to save the contract.

At trick three you play a club to the ace and follow with a heart to the nine. You then play the queen of clubs. As it happens, East follows low, so you discard a diamond on the queen, which West wins with the king.

The effect of this play is that you lose a club you did not have to lose while substituting a diamond for it which you did have to lose. You could call this simply an exchange of tricks if you wanted to, but actually, you gain one trick on the transaction. In the course of the exchange, the jack of clubs became a trick, and this manufactured trick enables you to discard a spade later on the jack and thus hold yourself to three losers.

Note that it would have made no difference if East had been the player with the king of clubs. In that case, you would have trapped the king to gain the extra club trick.

WISHING WELL by William J. Miller

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a magical formula, based on the numbers of letters in a word, subtracted 1, if the number of letters is even, and 2, if the number of letters is odd. The result is your wish number. Start at the top of the wishing well and check every one of your wish numbers till you find the one that matches the wish number given you. (Continued on page 2)

METS TOPPLE GIANTS

Swoboda's HR Brings Victory

BY 3-2 MARGIN

San Francisco (AP) — Ron Swoboda's leadoff homer in the 10th inning gave the New York Mets a 3-2 victory over the San Francisco Giants Wednesday.

Swoboda connected against reliever Bill Henry after the Giants rallied to tie the score in the ninth against winner Jack Fisher, and saved Juan Marichal from his first loss ever against the Mets.

Marichal had given up homers to Al Luplow and Roy McMillan and the Mets were leading 2-1 going into the ninth with Fisher working on a three-hitter.

But the Giants tied it when Fisher, who struck out nine, walked Willie Mays, made a wild pitch, walked Willie McCovey intentionally and gave a single to Jim Hart. He escaped the jam by striking out Cap Peterson and Len Gabrielson, leaving McCovey at second base.

The homers by Luplow and McMillan were the first runs the Mets had scored against Marichal since June 19, 1965 and ended a 32-inning shutout string for the Giants' right-hander against New York.

The Giants nicked Fisher for a run in the second on McCovey's double and Peterson's triple.

Luplow's seventh inning homer tied it and McMillan's eighth inning shot, his first homer of the year, put New York in front.

It was the fifth straight victory for the Mets and gave them a 5-3 edge in season's play against the Giants.

2-Man Battle Seen In PGA

ARNIE, NICKLAUS LIKED

Akron, Ohio (AP)—The golden anniversary Professional Golfers' Association championship—the sluggers' soiree—gets away Thursday with a two-man battle shaping up again between musclemen Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer.

"The same guys have a way of coming to the top in the big ones," acknowledged defending champion Dave Marr, who doubts that he has enough muscle on his 160-pound frame for the monstrous Firestone Country Club course.

The field of 165 includes 18 former PGA champions and virtually every top-flight professional in the United States, plus such dangerous foreigners as Gary Player of South Africa and Kel Nagel, Bruce Devlin and Bruce Crampton of Australia.

The parade starts at 5 a.m. CST over the 7,180-yard, par-70 layout, which annually is the scene of the American Golf Classic and the World Series of Golf. The course is a backbreaker with only two birdie holes in a stretch of 18, which weave through a countryside of stately pines, maple and hard-oak trees.

The par-5, 500-yard second can be reached in two shots by the modern crop of heavy hitters and a par-4 No. 11 is only 355 yards, which can be caught with a six or seven iron.

Four of the par 4's measure 465 yards and only the bullstrong can get there in two blows when the wind is up. One of these is No. 6, with a blind tee target which in 2,808 tournament rounds has seen only 98 birdies compared with 895 bogeys.

The 16th is one of the longest holes in golf, a dog-leg left of 625 yards with the green fronted by a small pond. Only two men, Palmer and Bobby Nichols, have ever reached the green in two in tournament play.

Palmer, the all-time leading money winner, is the 4-1 favorite despite his night-marish foldup in the U.S. Open last month in San Francisco, where he dropped seven strokes to Bill Casper on the last nine holes of his final round and six on the final nine of the playoff.

"No, it hasn't left any marks on me and I don't believe in jinxes," said a loose and relaxed Palmer, who never has won the PGA. "If I play well here, I have a chance. If I don't, I won't. It's as simple as that."

No one in the field has a better record on the Firestone course. In six tournaments, he has finished in a tie for seventh 1960 PGA, fourth, first, second, third and second.

On the other hand, the burly Nicklaus, a 6-1 choice with Doug Sanders, Gay Brewer and Player, skied to a 79 and 80 in his final two rounds in the American Classic here a year ago.

Since then, however, the 26-year-old Golden Bear has won a Master's and British Open and, by his own admission, whipped his game to its peak. "I've never hit the ball better," he said.

Casper, who tied for 24th here in 1960, and failed to make the cut in 1962, has studiously avoided Akron, the rubber capital of the world, because he contends the fumes stop up his nose and give him a terrible headache. The Akron Chamber of Commerce said it is all in his imagination.

The Open champion came here armed with a doctor's certificate that his sensitive allergies would not be affected if the wind blows more than eight miles an hour and away from the industrial center.

Overlooked in the early appraisals has been Nichols, 1964 winner, who is fresh from a victory at St. Paul. Nichols can match Palmer and Nicklaus in length and he has the advantage of impetus.

"Coming here after a win gives a man tremendous confidence," he said.

Stottlemyre Hurls Yanks To Victory

KC BLANKED, 4-0

New York (AP)—Mel Stottlemyre pitched a six-hitter as the New York Yankees blanked Kansas City, 4-0, Wednesday night.

The victory, New York's fifth in a row, enabled the Yankees to break their seventh place tie with the Athletics.

Horace Clarge gave Stottlemyre all the runs he needed when he whacked a third inning homer with Clete Boyer on base. Boyer had walked against Jim (Catfish) Hunter to open the third and, after Stottlemyre sacrificed, Clarke hit the right field foul pole for his third homer of the year.

The Yankees got their third run in the sixth when Bobby Richardson led off with a double and came around on Joe Pepitone's single.

Tom Tresh's 10th home run of the year wound up the scoring in the eighth.

Stottlemyre, who struck out five, was in a jam in the first when two walks and a single loaded the bases with one out. But Danny Cater bounced into an inning ending double play and the Yankee right-hander was in control the rest of the way.

Draft Test Results Bear Woeful News

... NO HOPE FOR FLUNKIES

By JIM STEVENSON
Star Staff Writer

In the aftermath of the draft test, with three of the four test results in and the results of the fourth on the way, anxious students across the state are awaiting or have already received word from their local board of new status.

Unfortunately, of course, the student passed the test or remained in a set class standing in his school: upper one-half for freshmen, upper two-thirds for sophomores, upper three-fourths for juniors. Then the test score is meaningless, and he remains classified 2S, provided he is a full-time student and not on probation.

Students may feel that it's all organized confusion designed to make them throw up their hands in surrender in front of the nearest enlistment booth, but the Selective Service wouldn't be too happy about that either.

In fact, it's been pointed out that the Selective Service loses almost as many men as they draft because of enlistments. Young men, faced point-blank with the possibility of being drafted when they are notified of their draft physical, often enlist rather than wait to be drafted.

General Lewis B. Hershey, national director of the Selective Service, has said that, besides the 350,000 men drafted since the beginning of the Viet Nam conflict, approximately another 350,000 men enlisted after they were notified to appear for their draft physical.

The recent draft test scores are being returned to the local boards of the students who took the test, who in turn notify the student of his grade on the test.

The tests themselves, which arose out of the controversy around student deferments, were graded by the Science Research Association in Chicago. There was a series of four tests, spread out through May and June.

"We're receiving some indication that the students who received low scores on the test and who have no chance of being deferred through their class standing are choosing to enlist right away rather than wait for IA standing or a notice for a physical," a spokesman for Lt. Gen. Guy Henninger, director of the Nebraska Selective Service, said.

Hope Exists

There is some hope, however, in the lower quarters and quartiles of student existence that the test results are only temporary, superficial data, and that the storm will soon blow itself out, leaving things — namely students — in their previous happy state — namely civilian.

Unfortunately, the Selective Service brands these hopes as completely false.

"I see no reason to believe that the local boards are not using the draft test scores and the class standings," the spokesman said. "We're getting indications all the time that they're applying them to their districts."

"We're just going to have to get men from somewhere," he said, "and if they don't come from the lower division students, I don't know where we're going to get them."

Down in those lower quarters and quartiles, the temperature just rose several degrees.

State Navy's Flagship Runs Into Trouble

The flagship of the now mythical Nebraska Navy recently ran into trouble traveling at seven knots an hour between Brownville and Rulo down the Missouri.

According to Admiral and Information Officer Glenn Friendt of the S.S. Centennial, the four-man crew of admirals made a quick decision and for safety's sake left the "ship's" anchor as "a souvenir for the mighty Missouri River."

While practicing tying sailor's knots, they agreed to try dropping the anchor for excitement.

All hands were at their stations when they cut the engines and lowered the stern anchor. Friendt said in a letter to the Centennial Commission that they realized the mistake as the line drew tight and water began bubbling over the stern into the cabin.

They were supposed to drop the bow anchor and come adrift with the bow facing upstream.

The four admirals acted swiftly: they reactivated the engines, struggled with the anchor line and finally cut it as a token for the river.

CONGRESS EFFICIENCY BILL HAS RECESS, SECRECY CURBS

Washington (AP)—A battery of proposals, including an annual summer recess and a curb on congressional secrecy have been approved tentatively by a Senate-House committee that has been studying ways to make Congress more efficient.

Both houses would be required to recess each year on July 31, except during declared wars, returning in September if necessary. And the committee recommended that Congress operate on a 5-day work week instead of the present Tuesday-to-Thursday schedule.

The report was drafted by the joint committee on the organization of Congress which was set up last year to provide the first comprehensive review of congressional operations in 20 years. It is scheduled for formal approval Thursday.

All proposals are subject to action by the two houses, and strong opposition is expected to a number of them—especially a proposed realignment of Senate and House committees.

The most controversial of these would split the House Education and Labor Committee, headed by Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., into a committee on labor and a public welfare and a committee on education.

The committee recommended that all committee hearings, except those dealing with national security, be open to the public, including those of the House appropriations subcommittees which are all held in secrecy at present. Similar proposals have in the past been rejected.

It also recommended that all committee votes in closed sessions be released to the public.

The committee recommended that House hearings be opened to television coverage, as Senate committees are now, at the option of the chairman with approval by the majority of the committee.

It made these other recommendations:

1. A permanent joint committee on congressional operations be established, to make continuing proposals to improve congressional operations.
2. Postmasters would be appointed by the Post Office Department on the basis of civil service tests, rather than subject to recommendations by congressmen and senators.
3. Senators receive one additional round-trip home per year and representatives three, giving each a total of seven.
4. Capitol guides would be made legislative employees, thus eliminating the need for charges for Capitol tours.

Ike, George Have Talk

Gettysburg, Pa. (AP)—Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and Michigan Gov. George Romney talked politics for an hour and a half Wednesday but both said they avoided Republican presidential prospects for 1968.

In a meeting with newsmen after the prolonged conference in Eisenhower's office broke up, the former president said they talked about the election in which he expressed hope "the governor will have the biggest victory ever."

Romney has had two terms of two-years each and is running for renomination for the first four-year gubernatorial term in Michigan history under a change in the state constitution.

Both men were asked about their reaction to threats of war criminal trials for captured American soldiers in Viet Nam.

"If I were there," Eisenhower said, "there would be strong reaction."

When Eisenhower was asked whether he was endorsing Romney for the Republican presidential nomination in 1968, both men laughed heartily. Eisenhower said they hadn't "gotten that far."

It made these other recommendations:

1. A permanent joint committee on congressional operations be established, to make continuing proposals to improve congressional operations.
2. Postmasters would be appointed by the Post Office Department on the basis of civil service tests, rather than subject to recommendations by congressmen and senators.
3. Senators receive one additional round-trip home per year and representatives three, giving each a total of seven.
4. Capitol guides would be made legislative employees, thus eliminating the need for charges for Capitol tours.
